Season to open June 12

Brown shrimp plentiful off Hancock coastline

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

The 1984 Mississippi brown shrimp season will open at 10 a.m. Tuesday, June 12.

Tom Van Devender, fisheries biologist for the Bureau of Marine Resources, said the Mississippi Commission on Wildlife Conservation met Friday morning to formally set the season.

"We are expecting a good season—particularly on opening day—unless we have a tremendous amount of rain before June 12," he said.

But, he added, "we're not sure how long the catches will hold up."

BMR officials completed samplings

this week of shrimp at nine stations in the Mississippi Sound.

Van Devender said heavy rains earlier this week, coupled with the natural migration of shrimp from estuaries and marshlands into the Sound, resulted in a tripling this week from last week of the number of shrimp caught at the stations.

The average length for shrimp sampled was 74 millimeters, or just under three inches.

Van Devender said the samplings show shrimp to be relatively plentiful and growing well at least in the western portion of the Sound.

The samplings, he said, showed shrimp to be relatively scarce in the eastern portion of the Sound, but that could be attributable to higher salinities there, causing shrimp to remain longer in shallow water areas.

Salinity levels, varying from 10 to 18 parts per thousand, are "very high for this time of year," he said.

The 1983 shrimp catch in Mississippi, nearly 5.4 million pounds, was down 7 percent from the year before.

"The season opened much later than normal last year because of the tremendous amount of local rain flooding which killed a large number of post larvae in the marshes," Van Devender said.

"We had to wait for later post larvae growth."

He noted that many people blamed last year's late opening to freshwater flooding resulting from opening of the Bonnet Carré Spillway floodgates north of New Orleans by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

But the shrimp had already been killed by local flooding, he said.

High river stages throughout the Mississippi Valley this spring may necessitate opening the spillway, or portions of it, again this year.

"As of Wednesday the Corps of Engineers was assuring us they probably would open the spillway," Van Devender said Friday, "but a radio report this morning said they don't think they will."

"All their predictions include the word 'probably,'" he noted.

"Even if the spillway does have to be

Demo precinct managers training session slated

A training session of poll workers for the June 5, 1984 Democratic Primary Election will be conducted Monday at 7 p.m. in the Board of Supervisors Room, Hancock County Courthouse, according to Joseph Benvenuti, county Democratic Executive Committee chairman.

"This is a necessary session for poll workers to attend," Benvenuti stated. Instructors will include Charles Gottschalk, member of the Democratic Executive Committee and Hancock County election commissioner, and J. V. Ladner, Hancock County election commissioner.

The primary will elect the Democratic nominee for United States senator in the November general election.

Those vying for the nomination include W. W. Easley II, William L. Gilbert, Billy Taylor and William Winter.

Poll workers named by the Hancock County Democratic Executive Committee are:

Bay PD adds armed robbery charges to Pearlington duo

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Armed robbery charges were filed Thursday against two persons who already face grand larceny charges after being arrested last weekend, according to Douglas Williams, Bay chief of police.

Williams said, "James D. Deaton, 49, and Theresa Campbell, 25, both residents of a mobile home in Pearlington, were arrested for the armed robbery of William Simcox of Alco, Tenn., on April 20, 1984 at the Washington Street pier."

The two were served with the additional charges at the Hancock County jail where they were being held on grand larceny charges in connection with a hike who was offered a ride in Slidell, La., and then had his possessions taken, Williams said.

They were arrested after a joint investigation of the Slidell matter was conducted by the Bay police, Hancock County Sheriff's Department and the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

Arraignments on the armed robbery charges were held Friday before Joseph Benvenuti, Bay municipal judge.

Deaton's bond was set at $50,000 and Campbell's at $2,500, according to Joe Pica, Bay detective.

A preliminary hearing is scheduled before Judge Benvenuti on June 6.

"The duo had been under surveillance by the Bay police and sheriff's department since the April 20 incident when they reportedly had offered a ride to Simcox, a Tennessee National Guardsman who was picked up near a Biloxi Lounge."

"They let him out at the Washington Street pier in Bay St. Louis, then took his belongings," Pica reported.

Alvin Ladner, Hancock County investigator, reported last week. They

MRS. ADRIUS LADNER

Mrs. Adrius Josephine Ladner, 69, Route 1, Standard Road, Pass Christian, died Wednesday, May 23, 1984 in Gulfport.

Visitors called Thursday evening at the Dedeaux Schol where a rosary was recited.

An 11 a.m. mass was celebrated Friday at Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Dedeaux, followed by burial in the Standard Sandhill Cemetery.

Mrs. Ladner was a native of Hancock County and was a member of Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

She is survived by her husband, Rush Ladner; two sons, Byburn 'Smoke' Ladner and Eugene Ladner, all of the Dedeaux community; three daughters, Mrs. Margie Ladner of Neacase Crossing, Mrs. Jewell Ladner of Poplarville and Mrs. Ella Mae Peterson of White Cypress; three brothers, Hollis Ladner, R.D. Ladner and Hollis Ladner, all of White Cypress; 14 grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

Riemann Funeral Home in Gulfport was in charge of arrangements.

JAMES PAUL WOOD

Visitation for James Paul Wood, 50, of Pearlinton was Saturday from 9 a.m. followed by 1 p.m. funeral services at Honaker Funeral Home, Slidell, La.

Interment was in Forest Lawn Cemetery, Slidell.

Rev. Wendell S. Ward, pastor of Pearlinton First Baptist church, officiated.

Mr. Wood, a native of New Orleans, died Friday, May 25, 1984 at his residence on Sumatra Road. He was a sugar industry laboratory technician.

Mr. Wood was preceded in death by his father, the late Bernard C. Wood.

Survivors include his wife, Shirley T. Wood; three sons, James Patrick Wood, Jeffery Paul Wood and Jerald Peter Wood, all of Pearlinton; mother, Mrs. Edith Mitchell Wood; and a sister, Mrs. William H. Hughes, both of New Orleans.

UM receives $317,868 in research grants

The University of Mississippi received $317,868 in awards for sponsored research and service activities during April, including $102,507 in physics and $75,029 in biology.

The physics grant from the Office of Naval Research supports continuing research on optical sound generation and amplification by professors Henry Bass, F. Douglas Shields and Lawrence A. Crum.

In the Department of Biology, Jerrold Heindel, an associate professor, received funds from the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development for his work on serotini cell maturation.

Other grants included $94,924 from the U.S. Department of Education to Austin Bunch, coordinator of special education, and Andrea Sizemore, assistant professor, to fund Project BOLD. The same agency provided $9,020 to Dr. Bunch to train special education personnel in program development.

Thomas C. Marshall, assistant professor of physics and astronomy, received $38,400 from the National Science Foundation for electric field measurements inside New Mexico thunderstorms.

The Mississippi Governor's Highway Safety Program awarded $8,000 to Charles L. Clark, director of the court education program in the School of Law. The funds will be used to train court personnel in DUI cases.

Bill Ferris, director of the Center for the Study of Southern Culture, was awarded $5,188 from Auburn University to study historical influences of black folk music.

James D. Minor, assistant to the dean and assistant professor of law, received $16,800 from the U.S. Department of Education to support graduate and professional study fellowship grants.

NASA, Martin Marietta advance welding to science

A system designed to help improve production of the Space Shuttle External Tank has transformed the art of welding into a science, according to engineers at the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala.

The system, called variable polarity plasma arc welding, is a computer-controlled welding operation designed to increase the quality of the welds, improve production time and reduce the cost of making the external tanks, according to William Wilson, an engineer at the Marshall Center.

The huge external tanks are manufactured by the Martin Marietta Corporation at Marshall's Michoud Assembly Facility near New Orleans.

The welding system is being incorporated into the production process in a joint cost reduction program between Martin Marietta and the Marshall Center.

By 1985, an initial investment of $20 million to improve the external tank production system is expected to produce a total program savings of an estimated $350 million.

The plasma arc technique, first tested in private industry in the mid-1960s as an alternative to more conventional welding, provides higher heat at the point of the weld.

The higher heat is generated because plasma arc uses an ionized gas as a means of applying the heat for welding to the metal surface.

Variable polarity plasma arc welding refines and controls the ability of plasma arc to cut metal and employs a reverse polarity cycle to clean the metal of impurities during the welding operation.

The computer-aided system first melts a key hole through the metal, then "pushes" or continues to burn the hole along the weld line. The molten metal fills in behind the key hole forming a weld essentially free of defects. During every 23 millisecond period of the welding operation, the polarity of the metal surface is reversed for four milliseconds, removing impurities in the path of the weld.

Marshall engineers combined the benefits of variable polarity plasma arc welding with a computer controlled system to provide a more consistent quality weld.

X-rays of the plasma arc weld show an absence of porosity, impurities and internal defects in the metal.

"It is a near impossible task for individual workmen to continuously weld the huge external tank on a high production basis because of the varying shape of the tank and varying thickness of the tank walls," Wilson said.

"The computer can direct a continuous input which adjusts to the various contour and structural variations of the tank."

The first computer-controlled weld stations were implemented at the Michoud facility with the thirteenth external tank. By October 1985, 16 different welding stations are planned to be equipped with the new system.

With both Marshall and Martin Marietta working jointly as the development team on the computer-aided welding system and in making other improvements in the external tank production, significant cost savings have been realized, according to Porter Bridwell, manager of Marshall's External Tank Project Office.

"In 1979, the External Tank Project Office, in conjunction with the contractor, made a commitment to reduce the cost of the first 60 external tanks by $68 million based on the one-time investment of $20 million," said Bridwell.

In addition to the enhanced welding system, the total effort to reduce costs in external tank production by the estimated $350 million covers all aspects of processing, improvements in materials and production procedures, Bridwell added.

"In the development of the variable polarity plasma arc welding system, Marshall laboratory personnel approve materials and processes which are used in conjunction with the fabrication of an external tank and make positive recommendations relative to what changes will or will not be technically acceptable to the government," he said.

"By virtue of our laboratory people participating in the development process, implementation of decisions can be made in a more timely fashion by the project office because the inputs from Marshall's science and engineering directorate and the contractor are received in parallel rather than in series."

The application of advanced technology to a basic industrial operation has also elevated the welding to a higher level, said Wilson. "To some, welding is normally considered an art, but this project with its computer controls makes it a science."

Rare annular eclipse to be visible Wednesday

An annular eclipse of the sun will occur Wednesday and will be visible from parts of South Mississippi.

The moon will cover the sun in the eclipse, which will be visible in partial phases in most of the United States.

The annular effect, which occurs when the edge of the sun remains visible as a ring around the moon, will be visible only from an area including Nicholson, Picayune, Caesar, Wiggins, Bond, Leaf and McLain, according to Sam Mims, Louisiana Arts and Science Center Planetarium Curator in Baton Rouge, La.

The eclipse will begin about 8:40 a.m. C.S.T. when the moon begins to move in front of the sun. The annular effect will occur about 10:05 and will be visible for about 12 seconds. The entire eclipse will end at about 11:40 a.m.

Unlike a total eclipse, the sky does not darken completely during an annular eclipse. The light from the ring of sun still visible around the moon will make the sky resemble a cloudy day, Mims said.

Budget Contacts Are No Bargain

Over 40 percent of all patients buying contact lenses are no longer wearing them at the end of one year. This staggering statistic is the direct result of thousands of patients seeking to save money buying contact lenses at rock bottom prices with inadequate fitting and poor follow-up.

If you are interested in contacts, pick a local clinic with plenty of contacts in stock. Wearing contacts before you purchase them can save time and money. Questions of whether to wear hard, semi-soft, soft, or extended wear contacts are usually answered in the initial visit. Good follow up assures the best possible fitting. In my experience optometrists as well as ophthalmologists do an excellent job of fitting contact lenses.

Never buy contacts from an optical shop. These people are not licensed to dispense contacts and have inadequate technical education.

Job conference set at Gulf Park

The introduction of high technology into the workplace is expected to alter the lives and jobs of a large number of workers. It will take the cooperation of businessmen, educators and social workers to alleviate these problems. Representatives from all three groups will be involved in a conference on job dislocation and career development in a high tech society May 28-31 at the University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Park campus.

"Our communities will have to respond to both benefits and problems caused by such innovations as robots, computerization and advanced communication technologies. It will take a partnership of both the private and public sectors to balance the positives and negatives of high tech," said Dr. Shirley Jones, dean of the USM Graduate School of Social Work.

Conference speakers will include Dr. Jesse White, executive director, Southern Growth Policies Board; Madeleine Hemmings, vice president for policy, National Alliance of Business; and Richard English, president of the Council on Social Work Education.

Also invited to speak is Dr. William Gevarter of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration AMES Research Center. Other nationally-known corporations, organizations and government agencies expected to send workshop leaders include General Motors, Hercules Corp., Humatics Corp., U.S. Bureau of Census, Tennessee Valley Authority and National Economic Policy Board.

State groups participating include Mississippi Head Start Association, Governor's Office of Job Training and Development, Southern Center for Research and Innovation and USM faculty.

For additional information contact Dr. Kenneth Abbott, Southern Station Box 35114, Hattiesburg, MS 39401, telephone (601) 266-4177, or Dr. Shirley Jones at 266-4163.

Retirees honored

Two University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Park retirees were honored recently for their years of service to the university and the state.

Euborn L. "Red" Boro retired as superintendent of buildings and grounds at Gulf Park after 16½ years of service. He served in the United States Marine Corps for 22 years before joining the Gulf Park staff in 1972.

George Edwin Bullard retired as assistant to the dean and associate professor of business administration with 31½ years of state service. He served as a pilot during WW II, as a faculty member at Mississippi State University and as a consultant to Magnolia Aviation Company before coming to USM in 1961 as an assistant professor of marketing.

TREE DAMAGE

Almost everyone knows that trees and other plants properly placed in a landscape have value. They add beauty and serenity to a home or business. They purify the air and can act as sound barriers. They manufacture oxygen and help us save energy through their cooling work in summer and warming winters.

But how many of us realize the real dollar value of landscape plants? A piece of property properly landscaped can be worth much more than one without landscaping. In a recent survey, real estate appraisers estimated that good landscaping can add up to 25 percent to the market value of a home.

When your trees or shrubs are destroyed you may be able to claim a casualty loss on your home owner insurance or Federal income tax.

In Mississippi, under new homeowner insurance coverage, you may recover up to $500 per tree for a loss plus the expense of having the tree removed. Insurance companies are somewhat restrictive however on the type of casualty they cover.

Most insurance policies will cover a loss caused by fire, lightning, explosion, riot, civic commotion, malicious mischief, theft, aircraft, or a vehicle not operated by an occupant of the premises.

Obviously, insurance is not the answer to recovery under all circumstances, nor does it always cover the entire value of the loss. For cases where insurance will not cover the loss, you may be able to claim a casualty loss on your Federal income tax.

Beginning Jan. 1, 1983, regulations on non-business casualty losses allow deductions only when (a) each casualty exceeds $100 and (b) the aggregate amount of all such losses sustained during the taxable year exceeds 10 percent of the adjusted gross income of the individual.

In the case of trees or specimen landscape plants which cannot be replaced, the treasury regulations as they are now interpreted stipulate the loss is to be measured by the difference in property value immediately before and after the casualty occurred.

On public and business property, casualty losses are determined separate from the value of the property as a whole.

Regardless of how you attempt to reclaim a loss you must have proof of the value of the loss. The Council of Tree and Landscape Appraisers provide the following guidelines for assuring the recovery of the total value of a landscape tree or shrub loss:

Plan your landscape for both beauty and functional value. There are four factors used in the professional evaluation of trees and other plants:

1) The kind of plant - Trees which are hardy, durable, highly adaptable, and free from objectionable characteristics are worth the most.

2) Tree size - Sometimes the size and age of a tree are such that it cannot be replaced. These should be evaluated only by a professional.

3) Condition of the tree, shrub, or plant - Obviously, a healthy, well-maintained plant will have higher value.

4) Location of the plant - A tree that makes functional and/or aesthetic contribution to the property will be worth more than one, for example, in a wooded area.

Meanwhile:

—Protect and preserve your landscape plants to maintain value.

—Take pictures of trees and other landscape plants while they are healthy and take them as they grow and change. Then take pictures immediately after a casualty. This is very important documentation of a loss.

—Check your insurance. Find out what kind of coverage your insurance provides for landscape plants.

—Keep accurate records of your landscape appraisals; keep receipts for plant materials and maintenance of the property. This will provide added evidence of value in recovering a loss.

—Consult a professional tree or landscape appraiser immediately should a casualty strike.

Buccaneer Pageant set for June 8

The Miss Buccaneer State Park Pageant is scheduled for June 8.

Applications are currently being accepted from young women between the ages of 16 and 22 inclusive who are unmarried Mississippi residents.

The Buccaneer State Park Pageant winner will compete July 14 in Jackson for the title of Miss State Parks.

Miss State Parks will win a trip for two, courtesy of Delta Air Lines, to Atlantic City to attend the Miss American Pageant in September. Hotel accommodations are courtesy of Bryan Tours.

In addition, Miss State Parks will receive a round trip to Dallas, Tex., with three nights lodging from Highway Travel and American Airlines.

She may choose a scholarship from one of four Mississippi colleges—a full four-year scholarship to the Mississippi University for Women, a $1,000 scholarship to Behrman College, or $500 to the University of Southern Mississippi.

Application forms and additional information is available from Buccaneer State Park, telephone 467-3822.

Memorial Day

Many Americans observe an emotional Memorial Day tradition. Remembering those who live on in our lives—and in the life of their beloved land—we mark this day by visiting a cemetery.

This honored tradition dates back to the opening of the first National Cemetery in 1862. One hundred years later, there were 85 such cemeteries—but half were less than 10 acres. And a non-expansion policy was announced. Only Arlington would be enlarged.

In 1873, Congress opened up national cemeteries to all honorably discharged Union veterans of the Civil War. One hundred years later, the policy of non-expansion was reversed by Congress.

Passage of the National Cemeteries Act brought the system to the Veterans Administration and authorized the administrator of veterans affairs to establish new cemeteries and expand existing ones.

Today there are 108, located in some of the most scenic regions of our nation. And each of these great wooded, rolling, natural shrines is a serenely reverent resting place for our nation's veterans and their dependents.

President Reagan elaborated on their appropriateness by saying: "No citizen will ever receive higher commitment than to the hallowed ground of our National Cemeteries. No greater honor can be bestowed than to rest in the gallant ranks of those who struggled to preserve our spiritual and national values for all posterity."

Today, at cemeteries throughout the nation, we salute all those in "gallant ranks" who helped defend our country and preserve our freedom. Those on active duty will be remembered—as will the various branches of services to which they belong. But mostly, we honor our heroic war dead.

More than a million in number, they died at home and abroad. Each had their individual experiences, in life and in death. Each sacrificed in a particular way, in a particular action for a particular objective.

Only their closest friends knew their hopes and doubts, their successes and disappointments, their dreams and fears. We know only that they desired, and deserved, to live.

Yet—in simple obedience to duty, as they understood it—they were willing to pay freedom's highest price. In so doing, they remind us to be appreciative and to gain strength from their devotion and patriotism. They inspire us to honor our dead and the cause for which they died.

"It is for us, the living, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work, which they have thus far so nobly advanced," said Abraham Lincoln. "It is for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead, we take increased devotion..."

So we mark this day by remembering it is up to us to give meaning to their sacrifice. For they have done all that they can do.

Teen voices opposition to proposed clinic which may perform abortions

Dear Editor,

I'm a student of Trinity Christian Academy and I'm in the 11th grade. I feel strongly about voicing my opinion on reports that a medical clinic is proposed on Hwy. 90.

It's to my understanding that there, they will be performing abortions. Some doctors say that the baby is living at the moment of conception.

When the mother goes in for an abortion the baby is moving away from the instrument or solution to keep from the destruction that's coming its way.

We must be strong and stand up for what's right.

Abortion is not right and God won't honor our Gulf Coast for this.

Jesus said stand up and be counted for his righteousness sake.

We as Christians have to do just that, stand up and voice our opinions.

I pray with all sincerity that the people of Bay-Waveland will stand up and be counted.

Thank you and God bless you.

VASECTOMY

What is a vasectomy?

It's a safe, reliable and inexpensive form of male contraception through sterilization. This is achieved by cutting and tying the ends of the vas deferens, the tubes on either side of the scrotum through which sperm travel. About half a million American men annually undergo vasectomy.

The procedure is done in a doctor's office under local anesthesia and takes about half an hour. However, since a man remains fertile for a while after the operation, he should use some form of contraception until a semen sample taken about six weeks after surgery shows no sperm.

There may be some discomfort after surgery, but aspirin and cold packs relieve pain and swelling. Most men can resume normal activities within 48 hours, but should do no heavy lifting or straining for a week after surgery.

Can it be reversed?

Surgery can reverse a vasectomy about 50 to 60 percent of the time. But a man shouldn't have one if he doesn't want it to be permanent. However, because of the death of a child or a second marriage, some men have changed their minds and wished to be fertile again.

The procedure to restore fertility, called a vasovasostomy, is a delicate operation performed under a microscope. It's done under general anesthesia in a hospital and takes about one and a half to two hours.

Over the last three decades, improved surgical procedures have resulted in a steady increase in restored fertility following a vasovasostomy.

But there are complications - some stemming from the vasectomy itself - that may result in an unsuccessful vasovasostomy:

1. The longer a man waits to have a vasectomy reversed, the lower the success rate. When this procedure is performed on men more than five years after their vasectomy, the operation is less likely to be successful.

2. It's also possible for a man to build up antibodies to his own sperm. These antibodies may impair fertility even if surgery to reconnect the vas deferens is successful in restoring adequate numbers of sperm to the semen.

Postoperative care following a vasovasostomy is longer than that for a vasectomy. The patient requires five days of bedrest and must avoid heavy lifting and straining and sexual intercourse for three weeks. A month after surgery, a semen analysis is made to determine whether he has regained his fertility.

Impotence is not a side effect of either a vasectomy or a vasovasostomy. There is no damage in either procedure to the nerves or the blood vessels needed to create an erection and no significant change in hormone production.

Finally, no long-term dangers have been proved to be related to this popular surgical procedure.

A recent study sponsored by the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development concluded that men who had vasectomies are just as healthy 10 years later as those who did not.

WHAT IS GOUT?

Q: Is gout a form of arthritis?

A: No, but it's one of the causes of arthritis. Gout is an extremely painful condition that occurs when uric acid crystals are deposited into the joints of the body, producing inflammation and swelling. Although any joint may be affected - knee, wrist, knuckle, etc. - the most common place is on the side of the big toe - a condition called podagra. Crystals start to form in the kidney, causing kidney stones.

Gout results if the body's regulating mechanism to control the amount of uric acid in the blood is disturbed. Uric acid is a waste product of the body's metabolism. It is normally excreted in the urine. However, if the body produces too much uric acid or if the kidneys are unable to excrete it properly, it builds up in the blood and can cause gout.

acid gets gout. In fact, most do not. Since gout occurs primarily in patients with long-standing, significant elevations of uric acid, it's mainly a disease of middle and old age. It affects men more often than women.

Each attack of gout typically begins suddenly, lasts for several days, then goes away. One episode doesn't necessarily indicate that others will follow.

Relatively few people experience recurrent episodes. Those who do often have multiple joints involved. For patients with recurrent episodes, new drugs are available to prevent the deformities of chronic arthritis associated with gout only a generation ago.

National Tourism Week, 1984

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

The tourism industry is extremely important to the United States, contributing to our employment, economic prosperity, and international trade and understanding.

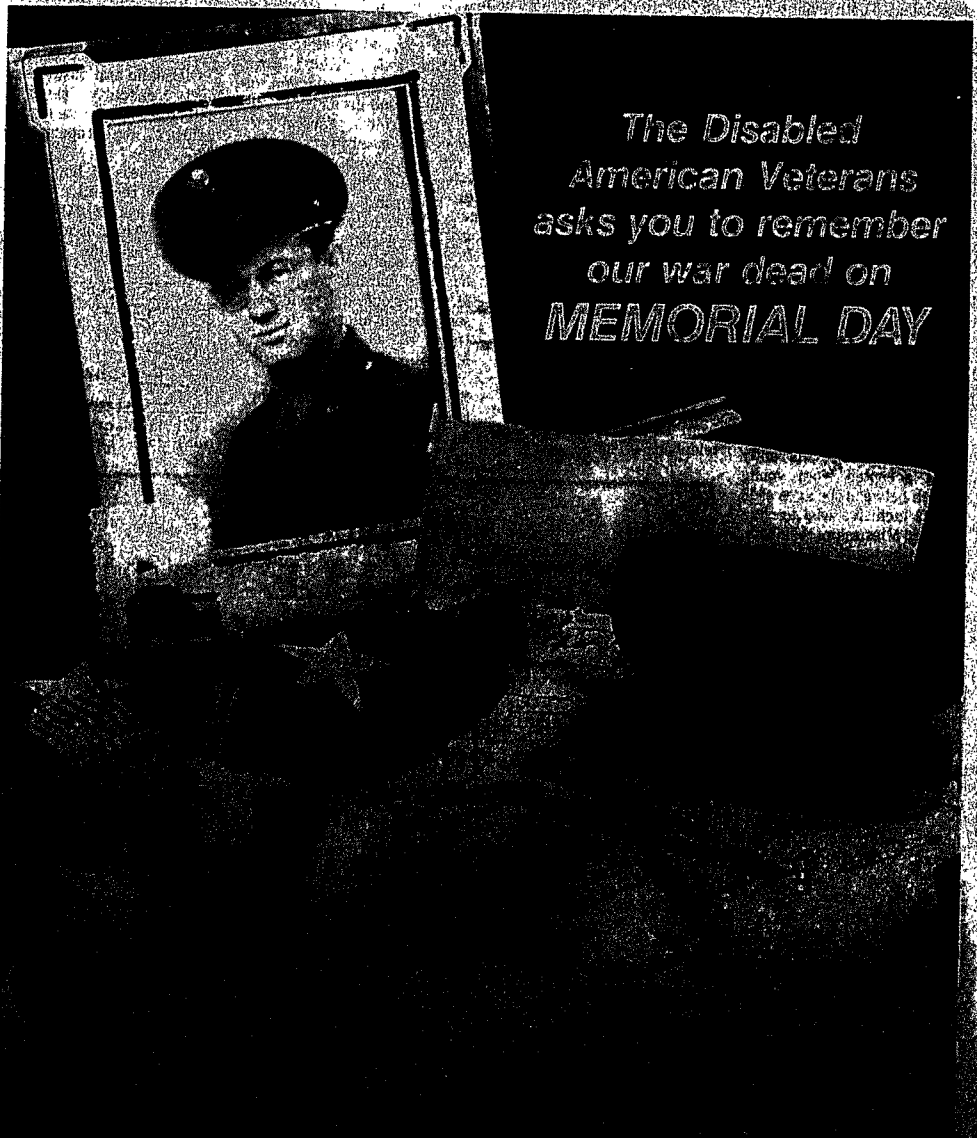

Each of us benefits from the effects of tourism. It substantially enhances our personal growth and education. Tourism also promotes intercultural understanding and appreciation of the geography, history and people of the United States. Now that inflation has been reduced and the economy is growing, personal incomes and leisure time will increase more rapidly. Tourism therefore can be expected to play an even greater role in the lives of the American people.

In recognition of the significance of the tourism industry to the enhancement of international trade, understanding and goodwill, the Congress, by House Joint Resolution 168, has designated the week beginning May 27, 1984, as "National Tourism Week" and has authorized and requested the President to issue a proclamation in observance of that week.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, RONALD REAGAN, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim the week beginning May 27, 1984, as National Tourism Week, and I call upon the people of the United States to observe such week with appropriate ceremonies and activities.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this 1st day of February, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and eighty-four, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and eighth.

Play review

'Odd Couple' showcases local actors' talents

By DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis production of "The Odd Couple" showcases two local residents, Charles Carter Jr. and Victor Frankiewicz Jr., as the play's leading characters, Oscar Madison and Felix Unger.

Carter delivers a restrained performance as Madison, a sloopy, divorced sports writer who invites Unger to move in with him.

Throughout most of the play, Carter doesn't allow his character to become really angry as Unger's compulsive cleaning and complaining begin to irritate him. Instead, he portrays Madison as a man trying hard to remain patient.

In the final scenes, Carter finally begins to allow Madison to show some aggression toward Unger and the audience's production picks up as the dialogue begins to flow faster.

Frankiewicz uses body language as much as speech in the role of Unger, who remains on the verge of hysteria.

Unger has thrown him out the first night hand motions as a sign of tension in a natural manner.

Unger, he becomes more comfortable with his character, as the play progresses.

Victory medals to be presented in Oxford

Hundreds of eligible World War II veterans left military service without claiming their Victory Medals.

For the first time the federal government has approved a plan to speed up application review and make unclaimed-medal presentations possible for all Mississippi veterans as the main event of Oxford's July 4 ceremonies. Relatives may claim a medal for a deceased, honorably discharged veteran.

Applications must be submitted before June 6.

Letters are being sent to Exchange Clubs throughout Mississippi asking for help in locating some 800 eligible applicants and inviting participation in the Oxford ceremonies. The clubs have also been asked to copy discharge documents for veterans.

Featured speaker for the July 4 activities will be new University of Mississippi Chancellor R. Gerald Turner.

Normally, it takes nine to 16 months from application to receiving a medal, but the government has agreed to speed processing of Mississippi applications for the statewide celebration in Oxford.

Tom DuBois, chairman of the July 4 program, said the event is the first of its kind in the U.S. and will include many special events. "We might have the television show 'Real People' here to cover it," he said. "There will be celebrities, outstanding programs and entertainment for everyone."

Plans call for either American military officers or military representatives from WW II allied countries to individually pin medals on veterans.

Because the number of authorized medals for this event is limited, DuBois said that presentations will be reserved for eligible veterans willing to attend the Oxford event until available supplies are exhausted.

A simple form to attach to a photocopy of the veteran's discharge document is available through a veteran's county courthouse or at the Oxford-Lafayette Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 147, Oxford, MS 38655. Completed applications should be sent to this Oxford address.

gresses and delivers his lines at a more natural pace in later scenes.

Early scenes tend to drag because both actors are faced with long passages of script where they are the only people on stage. Both are able to keep those scenes from bogging down but faster timing could improve the production.

Because Madison and Unger are on stage so much, the two could carry the play and leave the supporting characters looking like part of the set. However, the acting in this production and the interaction between the minor characters make them interesting on their own.

Dick Ehrbright, Ed. Scanlan Jr., Edgar Perez and Tommy Zanca deliver lively performances as four of Madison's poker-playing friends, while Claudia Murphy and Carol Owen use high-pitched giggles and English accents to portray two sisters on an awkward double date with Madison and Unger.

The play is directed by Mary Carter. It will run for its second weekend at 8:15 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Tickets are available at the door of the theatre on the corner of Boardman Avenue and A Street.

Felix and Oscar discuss the evening's menu in the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre's current production of 'The Odd Couple'.

the post's executive committee and membership are providing this monument to show we haven't forgotten those who gave their lives for this great country," Wilkerson said.

Relatives of those killed in action will be recognized at the dedication, and an honor guard will consist of members of the post.

The list of Hancock County natives killed in action which Wilkerson has been able to compile includes:

WORLD WAR I

Theodore Agairies, Clement R. Bontemps, Bennie Garrett, Theodore S. Price, Auther Thigpen, and Edward Kraemer

WORLD WAR II

Buster Anderson, Schafer Andy, Thomas H. Barnett, Herman M. Baxter, Curtis Belton, Eugene J. Bermond, Alfred F. Besancon Jr., Barvic V. Borchart, Elwood F. Bourgeois, Mark B. Carmichael, James Coe, George L. Cuevas Jr., Volley Davis, Claude Dawsey, Elgin L. Dedeaux, Wallace A.

Depreo, and James Hines.

Other World War II native Hancockians include Russel LaFontaine, Elbert Frierson, George Lee, Frank H. Lawton, Forrest J. Luc, Robert D. McCann, Donald J. Monti, Wilson L. Necaise, Joseph M. Penton, Henry C. Poillion Jr., Wendell K. Ponder, Louis T. Ranson, Hollice H. Smith, Richard M. Smith, and Claburn Thigpen.

KOREAN CONFLICT

Moise J. Ladner, Leroy R. LaFontaine, Eulas M. Shaw, and Delbert Zengarleng.

VIET-NAM CONFLICT

Joe E. Allen, Wallace Depreo, Dennis M. Ray, and Thomas J. Williams.

Wilkerson reported he had received no names of veterans killed in the Korean Conflict from official sources and already has located four.

Anyone knowing of any other Hancock County natives being killed in action during either of the four wars should contact Wilkerson.

opened this year, we're hoping it would not be extensive and would not greatly affect the Mississippi Sound.

Because salinities are so high, Van Devender said, opening the spillway should not have a dramatic effect.

"We will continue sampling at least for the next two weeks," the official said.

"We'll be looking at the stations to make sure the shrimp growth rate is continuing, as projected, and to see if there are changes in distribution."

The brown shrimp season is already open in Louisiana.

Zones 1 and 3 opened at 8 a.m. Friday. Zone 2 has been open since Monday.

Zone 1 extends from the South Pass of the Mississippi River eastward to the Mississippi line.

Zone 3 is the area from Vermilion Bay westward to the Texas line, and Zone 2 encompasses the remaining Louisiana coastline between Zones 1 and 3.

had offered a ride to a hiker in Slidell and when they stopped at the Hospitality Station on I-10 in Hancock County, he got out and they took off with his belongings.

"A description of the did and van was similar to the one given by the Tennessee National Guard, and they were originally arrested at a mobile home in Pearlinton by law officers," Pica said.

There is a possibility of other charges being brought against the two, Pica said late Friday.

The case is being handled by Pica and Murray Ladner, Bay investigator on the armed robbery charges.

Officers involved in the initial arrests and investigation included Ladner, Pica, Hancock Deputy Harold Heine and Hancock Auxiliary Deputy Gus Garcia, who were joined by Lt. T.P. Naylor, criminal investigator for the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

Deaton was still lodged in the Hancock County Jail Saturday afternoon. Campbell was released after posting bond on Friday.

Research lab classes open until June 1

There are still openings in college courses offered during the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory's 1984 summer teaching session June 4-August 24.

College students from affiliated campuses may apply until June 1.

Students representing 13 different institutions in 11 states have been accepted for the summer in addition to students from Mississippi schools.

This year's session offers 11 courses on topics in marine invertebrate zoology, oceanography, marine microbiology, marine ecology, coastal vegetation, marine vertebrate zoology and ichthyology, aquaculture, fauna and faunistic ecology of tidal marshes, marine botany and coastal marine geology.

Also offered by special arrangement are four courses providing opportunities for a student to work independently under supervision of a staff member.

Courses will be taught by members of the GCR Laboratory staff and visiting instructors from Vanderbilt University and Southeast Missouri State University.

Classes are open to college graduates and undergraduates. Junior standing or above is required for all courses except Oceanography I and II, and there are pre-requisites for each course. Credit earned (3-6 semester hours) depends upon length of the course.

State's unemployment drops to 9.4% April

Mississippi's unemployment rate dropped to 9.4 percent in April, a decrease of eight-tenths of a percentage point compared to March's revised jobless rate of 10.2 percent.

Last year's April unemployment rate was 13.9 percent.

The 9.4 percent unemployment rate for the state was higher than the 7.6 national rate for April.

Mississippi Employment Security Commission figures showed 96,800 unemployed and 936,000 employed out of a civilian labor force of 1,032,800. The initial unemployment insurance claims totalled 15,805 in April.

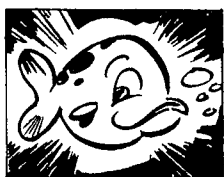

Thirty-eight of the state's 82 counties had unemployment rates of 10 percent or higher in April. Of that number, two counties had unemployment rates above 20 percent.

The counties having the highest unemployment rates in April were Marion with 20.6 percent, Jefferson with 20.4 percent and George with an unemployment rate of 19.2 percent.

Rankin, Lafayette and Pontotoc counties had the lowest jobless rates in April. Rankin had a rate of 5.1 percent, Lafayette 5.2 percent and Pontotoc 5.7 percent.

Sixty-four counties showed a decrease in their unemployment rates from March to April, while 16 counties reported increases. The unemployment rate in two counties, Green and Lincoln, was unchanged.

Gardeners salute World's Fair in annual Spring Flower Show

WILDFLOWERS - Wildflowers found their way into the annual Bay-Waveland Garden Club spring flower show as part of an exhibit designed by students. Intermediate class ribbons were awarded to those displaying the best arrangements.

The Sea Coast Echo

SUNDAY, MAY 27, 1984-1B

By DENA BISNETTE
The Bay-Waveland Garden Club paid tribute to the 1984 World's Fair and its theme "Fresh Water: Source of Life" in its annual spring flower show.

The show was staged May 18 and 19 at the Bay St. Louis Hancock County Public Library.

Mrs. Paul Miller, Mrs. Kenneth D. Ernst, Mrs. Vincent J. Sherry Sr., Mrs. Lewis L. Evans, Mrs. W.W. Dreher and Mrs. John G. Drevar served as judges.

Winners of the show's top awards included Mrs. Robert C. Pritchett, sweepstakes award for most blue ribbons; Virginia Larroux, serendipity award; Laurie Gagnon and Melinda Miller, intermediate meritorious; and Carrie Pritchett, arboreal award.

Also, Ruth Russell, horticultural excellence and award of merit; Crystal Burrows, award of merit; Alyce Newkirk, creativity award; Daisy Intermediate Gardeners, educational award; Gertrude Hatton, award of merit; and Billie Snider, award of merit.

Blue ribbon winners included Alyce Newkirk, design division classes one and two; Aggie Thompkins, design class three; Daisy Intermediate Gardeners, educational division; Mary Evans, Gertrude Hatton, Norma McKenna, George Seuzeneau and Juanita Miller, horticulture division section B; and Joan Gauthier, Donna

Wyckhouse, Audrey Baud and Gertrude Hatton, horticulture section F.

Blue ribbons were also awarded to Aggie Tomkins, Alonna Van Wyckhouse, Muriel Brokmeier, Mary Evans and Ruth Russell in horticulture section G; Donna Van Wyckhouse, Billie Snider, Rita Budge and Norma McKenna, horticulture section H; blue ribbons for horticulture were also awarded to Aggie Tomkins, Alonna Van Wyckhouse, Muriel Brokmeier, Mary Evans and Ruth Russell in section G; Donna Van Wyckhouse, Billie Snider, Rita Budge and Norma McKenna, section H; and Carrie Pritchett, Clara Seuzeneau, Alice Holmes, Juanita Miller, Virginia Larroux and Gertrude Hatton, section A.

Other winners included Carrie Pritchett, Ruth Russell, Virginia Larroux, Joan Gauthier, Tootsie Brokhardt, Aggie Tomkins and Muriel Brokhardt, section B; Crystal Burrows, section C; and Audrey Baud, section D.

In the design division, blue ribbon winners included Laurie Gagnon, section A class one and two; Sharon York, section A class three; and Alice Holmes, Nannette Murphree and Virginia Larroux, section B.

Intermediate blue ribbons were awarded to Sharon York, Jennifer Burrows, Bethany Burrows and Melinda Miller.

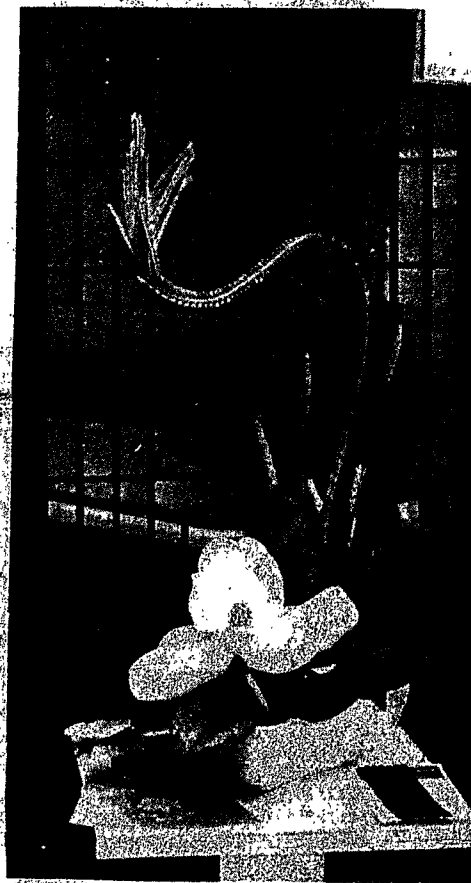

JADE PLANT - Gertrude Hatton won an award of merit for her jade plant, shown here with an entry of another variety. The plants were exhibited at the annual Bay-Waveland Garden Club spring flower show.

BLUE RIBBON - A dish garden grown by Jennifer Burrows was one of numerous blue ribbon winners at the annual Bay-Waveland Garden Club spring flower show. The garden was part of an exhibit in an intermediate class for student gardeners.

CREATIVE DESIGN WINNER - This entry by Alyce Newkirk won a creativity award at the recent annual Bay-Waveland Garden Club spring flower show. The design featured cut blossoms attached to a framework of dried plant material.

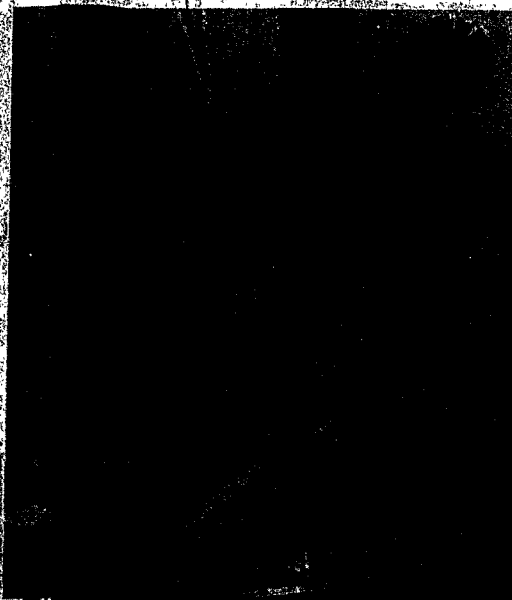

SERENDIPITY AWARD - An arrangement featuring a magnolia blossom and dried plants won the serendipity award at the annual Bay-Waveland Garden Club spring flower show. The design was created by Virginia Larroux.

A SOLITARY ROSE - Crystal Burrows won an award of merit for this Don Juan Rose, exhibited at the Bay-Waveland Garden Club's annual spring flower show.

GIFTS FROM THE SEA - Shells and other ocean items found their way into the Bay-Waveland Garden Club's annual spring flower show as part of several exhibits featuring sea-plant materials. They were used for designs including mobiles and collages, including the intermediate class entries shown here.

DAR officials feted at Friendship Oak meet

By Joe Pilet Recording Secretary
Friendship Oak Chapter NS DAR

A Hi and Bye Party attended by members of the Friendship Oak Chapter National Society Daughters of the American Revolution was given on Saturday in the Highland Drive home of Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet in Bay St. Louis. Honorees included Mrs. John C. Elkins of Long Beach, organizing regent who is moving to Georgia; Mrs. Philip Davenport of Bay St. Louis, the newly elected regent of the chapter, and Mrs. Albert Mincher, Coastal Plains District Director who lives in Prentiss, Miss.

Mrs. George Gemmel of Diamondhead proposed a toast of appreciation to Mrs. Elkins and concluded with the Irish Blessing "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You." A toast offered by Mrs. James Thomas and extended to Mrs. Davenport assured the groups' support during her term of office.

Potted caladiums, native to tropical America, and arrangements of live oak leaves with day lilies were used throughout the reception rooms and guests were given a preview of some of the program themes planned for the 1984-85 session.

One room carried a display, compliments of Nadic of Arts Studio, where a life-like baby doll dressed in fashionable christening garments was featured as well as a folk art decorated trinket box and an embroidery hoop framed crochet medallion. Mrs. Richard Stamm, owner of the Nadic Arts Studio, and her daughter, Mrs. Penny Rizan of Baton Rouge will provide a program demonstrating the art of painting on wood. The group will use duck decoys made by local wood carver, Elsworth Collins.

Mrs. James Young of Long Beach conducted an amusing "Silent Auction" at which time Mrs. Mincher received the prize for most purchases.

Pottery fashioned by Mrs. Florence Duffie who owns the Back Yard Pottery in Bay St. Louis was on display. Mrs. Duffie specializes in high fired stoneware, and is a collector of pre-Columbian art. She will give a program for the chapter during the fall entitled "The Influence of Indian Pottery Past and Present."

Mrs. Elmo Nolan of Pass Christian together with Mrs. Robert C. Willens of Long Beach were hostess at a quilt display session. "Quilt Making the Tapestry of Early America" will be the theme of one scheduled fall program for the group. A quilt, The Flower Garden, owned by Mrs. Nolan was bought from a small museum. Made of colorful cotton cut in pieces about the size of a five cent coin the quilt was made from 8,239 pieces, Mrs. Nolan said.

Mrs. George Cassis of Diamondhead, who serves as chairman of National Committee DAR Museum, brought small items from her private collection. Her slide and lecture program is in demand as a featured cultural program throughout the state.

On the banquet table, which was overlaid with an heirloom

Chinese lace cloth, was an oval cut glass container with an arrangement of day lilies and live oak leaves. The leaves were from a tree that is a descendant of the famous Friendship Oak on Gulf Park campus for which the chapter was named. On standards at either end of the table were fig preserve cakes, served by Mrs. Davenport. The cake has been selected as the "official dessert" of the chapter, and Mrs. Darleen Underwood received the DAR Award for Outstanding Contribution to Culinary Arts. Mrs. Underwood gave copies of the recipe to those in attendance. Mrs. Cassis and Thomas alternated at the punch service center. Guests from the Gulf Coast Chapter in attendance included Mrs. D. Lyle Robertson and Mrs. Harold C. Nolls, both of Gulfport.

The party ended with an invitation to "sit and chat in the patio or stroll through the flower gardens." The three honorees were presented sand painting cruets by Mrs. Nolan. Mrs. Davenport said: "The spirit of friendship and cooperation shown by this group is heart warming. I look forward to working with each of you and urge you to attend the District Meeting scheduled for August 8 in Hattiesburg at the Coca-Cola plant. It will provide an excellent workshop and I am sure we will benefit from the information."

Clubs, Auxiliaries

Diamondhead Garden Club

The Diamondhead Garden Club held its final meeting until fall with a picnic/covered-dish luncheon at the home of Mrs. Lee Fredian. Mrs. R.B. Boatright, president, gave the traditional annual report of the club's activities and accomplishments for the past year, noting the work that each chairman had so competently done to add to the club's achievements.

A shrub will be planted in the Diamondhead Memorial Garden in memory of the mother of Mrs. Joseph Finley.

Announcements included reminders of the Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs called meeting on June 1, at which time dates for next year's Pilgrimage will be chosen by each club. Mrs. Boatright said that the club was honored to have a member, Mrs. Clarence Evans, as Coast-wide Pilgrimage chairman.

June 1 is also the date that the club members will serve as hostesses when Hospitality Day is observed by the Mississippi Hospitality Center.

A Spanish Trail District Workshop will be held in Lucedale on June 14. After luncheon the group was divided into three teams, who competed at playing charades. Prizes to the winners were packets of wildflower seeds.

Blue Jeans Garden Club

The Blue Jeans Garden Club celebrated their 36th birthday last Thursday with a luncheon and hat show at the Round Table Restaurant in Waveland.

Guests introduced were Lena McKnight, Margaret Heitzman, Gloria Treadaway, Muriel Jackson and Marilyn Dupont. The tables were decorated with lovely white miniature crocheted hats adorned with delicate pink roses, made by Beverly Praetorius for each member and guest as club favors.

Winners in various categories of the hat competition were: large hat, Shirley Cox; small hat, Jennie Ortis; funny hat, Virginia Thomas; anything goes, Gladys Goodloe; most original, Beverly Praetorius and sweepstake winner, Gladys Goodloe.

A beautiful basket of spring flowers arranged by Shirley Cox was won by Cathleen Taconi.

Other chairladies for the annual event were: luncheon, Mary Callier and Thelma Dickson; hat show, Gladys Goodloe, Shirley Cox, Gloria Norton and Beverly Coogan; and photographer, Claire Conway.

Story Hour

Story Hour, given every Thursday at 10:30 a.m. at the City-County Library in Bay St. Louis, will be discontinued during June and July because of the summer reading program.

"Harry by the Sea" by Gene Zion begins the May 31 program. "Where Is Thumbkin?" a finger play, will be performed between stories. "Spring Snow" by Roger Duvoisin will be the second book to be read and "Just Me," a filmstrip, will conclude the program.

Story hour will begin again Thursday, August 2.

INTERMEDIATE WINNER - Melinda Miller won a meritorious award for horticulture in the container-grown plant category at the annual Bay-Waveland spring flower show. Miss Miller's entry was one of several winners in intermediate categories, which were open to students rather than adults.

HANGING BASKETS - Billie Snider's Boston fern was selected for an award of merit in the hanging basket category at the annual Bay-Waveland Garden Club spring flower show.

ARBOREAL AWARD - Carrie Pritchett exhibited a winning flower display in the arboreal category at the annual Bay-Waveland Garden Club spring flower show.

SON

SHARON KAY MITCHELL

Mitchell—Moran

Mr. and Mrs. Norman C. Mitchell of Picayune announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sharon Kay Mitchell, to Jeffrey Moran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Moran Jr. of Kiln.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Mitchell, and Mrs. Rena Wheat of Picayune, and the late Mr. Melvin Wheat. The future bridegroom is the grandson of Mr. Oswald Moran Sr., and Mrs. Mable Moran and Mrs. Mable Necaise, all of the Kiln, and the late Mr. Xavier Necaise.

Miss Mitchell presently teaches at Magnolia Park Elementary in the Ocean Springs School District.

Mr. Moran is employed by Winn-Dixie of Long Beach. Wedding vows will be solemnized at 6 p.m. on June 2 at Goodyear Baptist Church in Picayune. All friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Bay HS announces Summer registration

Summer school registration for Bay Senior High School will be 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. June 1 at the school library. Classes will be held June 4-July 13. Tuition must be paid in advance and will be $60 for one unit, $30 for a half unit and $40 for driver education.

A maximum of one unit of credit can be earned and students from schools other than Bay High must present a letter from their school principals stating that credit will be accepted.

Courses offered will include English 9, 10, 11 and 12; Mississippi history, American history, civics, fundamental math I and II, general science and driver education.

Students who can not be present on registration day and are taking courses other than driver education may register early in the principal's office. Late registrants will not be accepted after the third day of classes.

Nursing workshops set for May 30, 31

Two one-day workshops for nursing home administrators and their staffs will be presented by The University of Mississippi in Oxford and Greenwood.

The workshops will provide a review of licensure and certification regulations and will be conducted by personnel of the Division of Licensure and Certification of the Mississippi Health Care Commission and the Mississippi Medical Commission.

The workshops are Wednesday, May 30 at the University of Mississippi, E.F. Yerby Center; and Thursday, May 31 at Greenwood Ramada Inn. The programs are coordinated by the University's Division of Continuing Education.

Registration and begin with registration at 8:30 a.m. Programs conclude at 4:15 p.m. and have been approved by the Mississippi State Board of Nursing Home Administrators for six hours of licensure credit.

Registration fee for the workshop is $25 for the first participant from a nursing home and $20 for each additional participant. Cost of materials, lunch and coffee breaks is included in the fee.

Further information about the workshops may be obtained by writing or calling the Division of Continuing Education, The University of Mississippi, University, MS 38677, telephone (601) 232-7282.

MUW summer term begins May 30

Registration for the first summer term at Mississippi University for women will be May 29 from 8 a.m. until noon in the Pohl Physical Education Assembly Building.

More than 60 courses will be on the first-term summer school agenda with classes offered in each of MUW's nine academic divisions. First semester summer classes will begin May 30. The second summer term will begin July 2.

The fee for undergraduates is $34.50 per credit hour. Graduate students will pay $46 per credit hour. Resident students will be assessed $292 per term for room, board and post office box rental. Some courses require laboratory fees.

For more information about enrolling in MUW for summer sessions, contact the Office of Admissions, MUW, Columbus, Miss. 39701, telephone (601) 232-7282.

great-grandmother, Mrs. Authalia Daniels Hall, both of Bay St. Louis. Mrs. Hall, a native of Bay St. Louis, is the daughter of the late Wiley and Elsie Banks Daniels. (Echo staff photo by Edgar Perez)

Student overcomes hearing problem in Ole Miss classes

Cathy Gatchell doesn't seem much different from other students while she mixes chemicals in test tubes in the medical chemistry laboratory at the University of Mississippi.

But in class she stares intently at her professor, brow furrowed, as he lectures on the syntheses of antithyroid compounds, antispasmodics and aminoheterocycles. Other students scribble furiously in their notepads as they listen, but Cathy watches...because she is profoundly hearing impaired and must read lips.

Ms. Gatchell, a master's degree candidate, was taught the skill of oral communication early in her youth. At age three, she learned to read lips and was introduced to speech therapy.

"I went to a preschool for the deaf for two years at the University of Kansas Medical Center in Kansas City, Kan," she said. "Then I went to a public school in special education with other hearing impaired students in Kansas City, Mo., for seven years. I was in speech therapy every day for those seven years. Then I was mainstreamed into the fifth grade. My speech therapy continued two days a week up to high school."

Ms. Gatchell is also Ole Miss' first appointee to the Board Committee on the Handicapped for the American Chemical Society (ACS). The committee investigates ways physically handicapped individuals in chemistry-related disciplines can overcome problems unique to them.

A Kansas City, Mo. native, she earned a bachelor of science degree in chemistry from Utah State University. After working as a research assistant at the University of Kansas, she held a summer job for Du Pont Company in Wilmington, Del., before enrolling at Ole Miss. At Du Pont, she researched new compounds for pharmacological evaluations.

She has been at Ole Miss since fall of 1982 and has impressed her professors with her academic proficiency and determination.

Dr. Franklin Gilmore, who taught her in an introductory graduate course, said, "I think it's amazing that Cathy has gone as far as she has. I'm quite pleased with her progress. She will definitely be a productive employee."

Since coming to Ole Miss, Ms. Gatchell has been working toward a master of science degree in medicinal chemistry. Her 3.4 grade point average in graduate classes is testimony to her persistent resolve in her work. Her laboratory research consists of synthesizing potent, less addictive, morphine-type analgesics.

Because of her impairment, she speaks slowly and in a throaty tone. Despite this difficulty, she is at ease conversing with others and does so effectively. She insists that she's not handicapped.

"I always keep a positive attitude," she explained. "I consider myself normal and want to be treated that way. My motto is 'I can and I will.'"

"She was supposed to give a seminar, as do all graduate students," said Dr. Ron Borne, chairman of medicinal chemistry at Ole Miss. "They give oral presentations. I offered to let her hand in a written one, but she wouldn't. She wanted to give hers orally too. She doesn't want to be treated differently."

Her hearing difficulty has led to problems other than understanding oral instructions. One of her biggest obstacles has been overcoming others' negative attitudes about the hearing impaired. Though she has encountered such attitudes more often elsewhere, she has noticed them in limited proportions at Ole Miss.

"When interacting with people who are ignorant about deafness, it is my responsibility to show them my capabilities," she said. "This department has been good to me and very supportive of me, but I still had to prove myself in the department just as I would anywhere else. I just try to change people's attitudes in a positive way."

Ms. Gatchell also must arrange for one of her classmates to share notes after a lecture because of her need to lipread. Although nominally limited in the lab, she has also had difficulty understanding oral instructions there.

First named to the Board Committee on the Handicapped in 1979, she was one of only two members re-appointed for an additional three years to the seven-member committee.

"We recommend to the ACS solutions to problems handicapped chemists have," she said. "We try to remove the barriers that they face in the workplace and in the classroom."

Each committee member has a disability that give them special insight into problems encountered by the handicapped.

"I am the only hearing impaired member," she said. "One is blind and the others are mobility impaired."

The committee produced a handbook on teaching chemistry to physically handicapped students. Ms. Gatchell has proposed increasing the accessibility of the ACS's audio courses for hearing impaired chemists, a program to increase awareness of employers to handicapped chemists and a newsletter now being implemented by the ACS.

The committee meets at ACS headquarters in Washington, D.C., two or three times each year to exchange ideas. An ACS staff liaison and one staff member meet with the committee.

"Sometimes I write letters of recommendation for suggestions, but usually we present our ideas at the meetings," she said. "We are also in the process of preparing a survey to find out the needs of handicapped chemists."

Her high marks and exemplary work led Dr. Borne to say that the department is better because of her, and Dr. Gilmore said that she has been a positive influence on everyone with whom she works and she's doing a service with the ACS.

Ms. Gatchell said she'll do anything to remove the hurdles relating to hearing impairment. In spite of difficulties obtaining specific handicapped scholarship aid, funds provided by the graduate school and the department of medicinal chemistry have enabled her to clear most of the hurdles in her personal race for a master's degree.

Flotillas to observe Safe Boating Week

National Safe Boating Week will be observed by U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotillas 33 and 35 of Diamondhead, and Pass Christian, respectively, with booths featuring free information and pamphlets.

Also, boat safety inspections will be made at the booths.

Flotilla 33 booth times include:

Sunday, June 3 and Saturday, June 4 at Diamondhead Marina, 9 a.m. through 4 p.m.

Monday, June 4 through Friday, June 8 at Choctaw Shopping Center, 9 a.m. through 4 p.m.

Just a little time might save your life or that of your loved ones, a flotilla spokesman said.

For information call 265-5006 or 265-7055.

Free courtesy marine examinations will be offered by Flotilla 35, June 3 and 4 at Gulfport Long Beach, Pass Christian and Joe Bowen's launching ramps from 9 a.m.

Safe boating information booths will be set up at each location and personnel will be available to answer questions and distribute brochures relating to safe boating in the areas.

A fully equipped auxiliary facility will be on display at each ramp and open to the public for examination. These are the boats which are called out by the Coast Guard for search and rescue emergencies and for routine safety patrols.

June 10 marks the conclusion of National Safe Boating Week and area boat owners are urged to avail themselves of these courtesy vessel examinations.

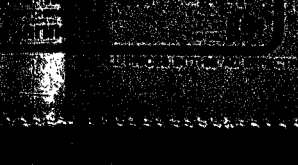

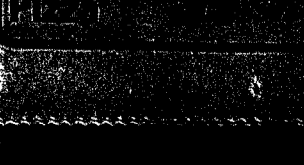

"You will find out how your boat shapes up with Federal and State regulations and, if all safety and legal items are in order, you will be given a seal of safety decal," Flotilla 35 spokesman pointed out.

Rare solar phenomenon delights sky watchers

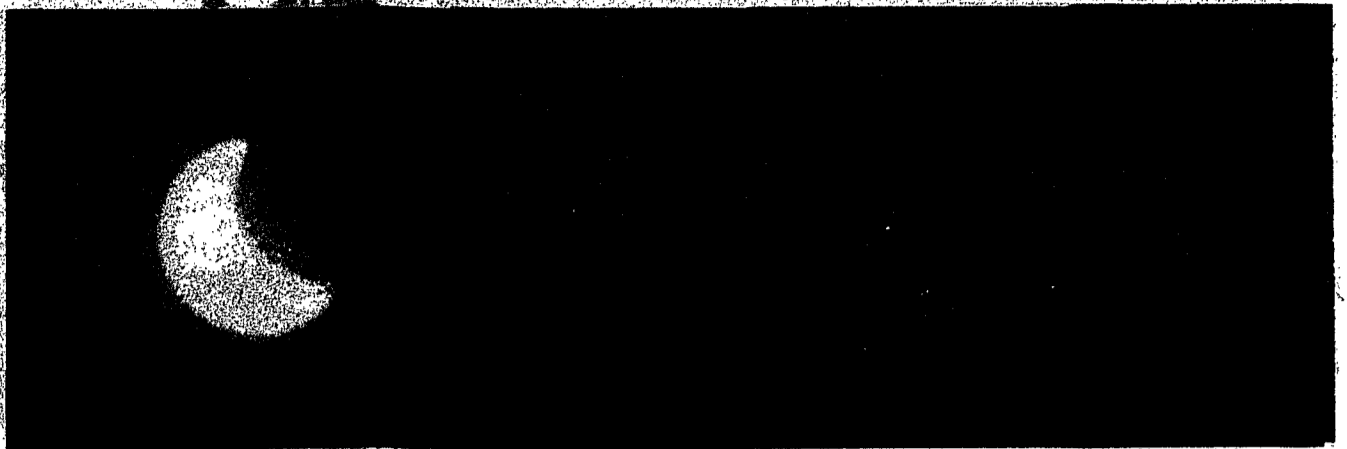

Renee A. Bernard's chickens at Ballentine Street in Bay St. Louis left the yard about 11 a.m. Wednesday and went to roost. Bay St. Louis Attorney Henry Cook's dog acted like it was sick and would not respond to the human voice. Sam Gaddie's cats on Mc Donald Lane disappeared and could not be found until sometime after noon.

And one imagines how early settlers or native Indians might have reacted in the days before mass media when on the next-to-last day in May a chilling north wind whipped through the area and the sky suddenly darkened.

Without advanced knowledge of an impending phenomenon such as Wednesday's rare annular eclipse of the sun, early Americans must surely have believed the Gods were angry or the world was ending.

Hancock County, sitting just south of a six-mile wide shadow cast by the full eclipse, experienced an eerie coloring of light and shadows for the better part of an hour as the moon moved between the sun and the earth—the effect being much like that seen by wearing medium density gray sunglasses.

Echo staffers Steven Lizana and Edgar Perez captured these views of the event using ASA 400 Tri-X black and white film with 25-A red filter on a 125mm telephoto lens shooting f-22 at 1,000th of a second.

HOME DESTROYED—Flames leap from a Lagan Street residence near Bayon LaCroix destroyed by fire Tuesday night. Two nearby homes were threatened and saved by the firefighter efforts, according to Billy Fields Jr., East Hancock Volunteer Fire Department assistant fire chief. He said one of the homes received cracked windows and melted shingles from the wind driven flames. The home was owned by Harry Morgan who was away at the time of the fire Fields said. The origin of the fire is being investigated by the Hancock County Sheriff's arson squad. Some 25 firefighters responded to the fire which was reported at 8:25 p.m. Fire engines at the scene included two from East Hancock Volunteer Fire Department, and Waveland Fire Department; one each from Bay St. Louis, Clermont Harbor Volunteer Fire Department, and BaySide Park Volunteer Fire Department. Waveland Legion honors veterans

By DENA BLENETTE

Members of the Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray Post 77 American Legion in Waveland celebrated Memorial Day Monday with a traditional wreath-laying ceremony.

The ceremony was preceded by an address by Don Decker, post judge advocate. Decker talked about the history of Memorial Day.

"Sadly enough, there has never been a generation free from death in war, be it on foreign shores or on our own soil," he said, explaining that Americans were called upon to defend their country as early as post-Revolutionary War days.

It was after the Civil War that the tradition of decorating veteran's graves became popular, according to Decker. "It was this terrible internal conflict and the thousands of lives that were lost that inspired this day we're celebrating now," he said.

Memorial Day was established during the post-Civil War period by Gen. John Logan as a means of honoring American military personnel killed in all wars.

Decker spoke of the lists of the dead from each war as "chapters in a book of loss" and made special mention of the

Supervisors endorse wastewater project

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors this week voted to support in principle a land spray irrigation system proposed by the Waveland Regional Wastewater District, but remained dubious about financial support of the project.

Monday the supervisors adopted a resolution endorsing the innovative land irrigation system which wastewater officials hope will receive 50 percent federal funding.

Earlier this month wastewater authorities were advised the project has been placed on the fiscal '84 construction grants priority list, making it eligible for some immediate funding from the Environmental Protection Agency.

But the Mississippi Commission on Natural Resources stipulated the system will be funded only if problems resulting from inadequate individual treatment systems (septic tanks and raw sewage lines) throughout the area are solved.

"Suddenly they say if the county doesn't participate, you can forget about this plan," Supervisor President Alton A. Keller said.

"I don't understand why they waited until the last hour."

"All they're asking us to do right now is go ahead and agree this is the best route to follow—but someone's going to have to come up with a lot of money."

According to state and local officials, waste is currently being discharged into the Jourdan River through inadequate septic tanks and simple drain pipes from about 600 homes.

Two petitions supporting the spray irrigation system were presented to the supervisors—one by Michael J. Reynolds with 60 signatures from Jourdan River Estates residents, the other by Malcolm Tullier with 100 signatures from Shoreline Park residents.

Both men said residents wanted central collection systems in the respective areas and were willing to pay

At public hearings:

Commissioner absenteeism delays zoning decisions

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Non-attendance of planning and zoning commission members caused delayed decisions at public hearings held Tuesday both in Waveland and Bay St. Louis.

Two of five commission members—Dr. Earl J. Breaux and Linda Penrose—attended the Waveland meeting.

Members Lester Haverty Jr., Laura Miller and Chairman Charles Dickson were absent.

Chairman C.S. McDonald was the only commissioner attending the Bay St. Louis meeting.

Absent were Dan Frederick, Clarence Ladner, August Scafide, William Tate III and Wilson Wehrs.

In Waveland, residents of Shoreline Park showed up to protest the construction of four horse stalls on Magnolia Street, an area of Shoreline Park that is also part of the annexed area of Waveland.

Joann Odum said she purchased four lots about six weeks ago with sufficient room for an exercise area and a barn.

She has moved a trailer and the horses onto the property, she said, and has bought posts, fencing and siding.

"I'm going to put up a decent house," she said, "and intend to have a barn that matches the house."

She does not yet have water on the property, she said.

"My three kids want to keep their horses," she said.

"I can't afford to stable my horses somewhere else."

Shoreline Park Civic Association President Malcolm Tullier, Vice President Herbert J. Marsh and several other Shoreline Park residents expressed ed concern about sanitation and property devaluation.

"The lots are too small and the area is too heavily populated," Marsh said.

Tullier noted that Shoreline Park restrictions established the subdivision for residential purposes only.

Patrol names Ladner chief investigator in 28-county region

Philip Michael (Mickey) Ladner, 43, Bay St. Louis native and Long Beach resident, has been promoted to chief investigator of the Mississippi Highway Patrol Criminal Investigation Bureau's Southern Region.

Col. George Saxon, Highway Patrol chief, said Capt. Ladner was selected for the promotion after being tested through the patrol's merit promotion system.

Named "Trooper of the Year" in 1983 by the Exchange Clubs of Mississippi, Ladner has served as an investigator since March 1975.

In his new position, Ladner is in charge of investigators in a 28-county region that includes Highway Patrol districts headquartered in Hattiesburg, Gulfport and Brookhaven.

Ladner was commissioned into the Highway Patrol in December, 1966 and assigned as a trooper in the Columbus Starville area.

He was assigned to the Executive Security Branch in Jackson and was later promoted to investigator in the Gulfport District.

A graduate of the FBI National Academy in Quantico, Va., Ladner was also graduated from Hazardous Explosive Device School at the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Alabama and Surveillance Techniques School at the Florida Law Enforcement Academy.

He served from 1958 until 1960 as a

Latour elected by WWI veterans

World War I Department of Mississippi held its 27th annual convention recently in Gulfport attended by 12 veterans and 20 auxiliary members.

Retired Judge Vernon Broome of Columbia was the guest speaker.

He stressed the need for HDQ 405 RE Pension (Service) Bill to pass in the Senate and Congress.

The WWI veterans were the ones to get the GI Bill of Rights for all the veterans who followed behind them, all thru the years although they themselves were denied any rights at all, he noted.

Other guests were VFW Post 3937 Incoming Commander Diamond Blakeney, and Auxiliary President Muriel Crawford; and Mr. and Mrs. Malone from American Legion Post 119 of Gulfport.

Representing the two VA hospitals were Jackie Smith and Doris Cox and their spouses.

Officers elected for '84-85 were Department Commander Tom Pleasants, 769, Gulfport; Senior Vice Commander Louis Latour, 2537, Bay St. Louis; Junior Vice Commander George Pollock, 1206, Pascagoula; Quartermaster Frank Nicholas, 769, Gulfport; Chaplain E.J. Webb from Louisville; Adjutant J. Hugh Miller, 2537, Bay St. Louis; and Judge Advocate Clarence Griffith, 769, Gulfport.

Auxiliary officers are President Gertrude Buckley, 1206, Pascagoula; Senior Vice President Cynthia Anding, 1325 Hazelhurst; Junior Vice President Jo Madigan, 769, Gulfport; Treasurer Rosalie Kyzer, 1323, Columbia; Chaplain Alice Beckham, 1206, Pascagoula; Conductress Alice Williams, 1323, Columbia; and Guard Virginia Barnes, 769, Gulfport.

Past National President Pauline Charing was the installing officer.

"We ask all those of you who read this article to please write to the senators and congress from Mississippi to please pass this Pension Bill. Many of the WWI veterans or their widows are in dire need of financial assistance and the passage of this bill would be of help to them. They earned it, they deserve it, and they should have it," Latour urged.

AERIAL VIEW - Pilots in the fourth annual sailplane race saw a view of the Jourdan River similar to the one shown in this photo taken from inside a sailplane. Visible at left is an engine-

Mobile pilot wins sailplane race

By DENA BISNETTE

Fred Schmid of Mobile, Al., was declared winner of the fourth annual sailplane race at Stennis Airport near Waveland Monday.

In a three-day race held during the Memorial Day weekend, Schmid flew a total of 412.34 miles in his engineless plane.

Schmid also won the title in 1981 and 1982.

Second place winner was 1983 champion Duffy Snyder of Pensacola, Fla. with 330 miles.

Schmid's wife Suzanne, the only female pilot in the race, took third place by flying 320.46 miles.

According to Andy Ewing of Bay

Aviation, which sponsored the race, the average speed for the first place winner was 56 mph. The average altitude for all pilots was 3,500 feet, with the highest altitude reported at about 4,200 feet Monday.

Ewing said 11 pilots from Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana and Florida entered this year, with one pilot withdrawing after Saturday's flight due to an injury unrelated to the race. Entries included two Bay St. Louis pilots, Ewing, who finished sixth; and Bob Folstead, who finished ninth.

Pilots flew about four hours per day during the race and were required to photograph specific points from the air to prove their distances. Each pilot was also credited according to Soaring Society of America rules to keep the performance, characteristics of different sailplane models from affecting the race.

Ewing reported that some pilots were unable to leave Stennis Saturday due to weather conditions. However, he added that flying weather was good for the remainder of the race, which ended at 4:20 p.m. Monday when the last pilot returned to the airport.

After the race, Schmid was presented with the Pat Mulloy Memorial trophy. According to Ewing, the trophy is named to honor a Laurel resident who was one of Mississippi's pioneers in the sport of sailplane flying.

one added most recently.

"Less than a year ago, our servicemen in Lebanon and Grenada defended freedom and our flag. Some, tragically, made the ultimate sacrifice," he said.

"On this Memorial Day, we must remember that this nation has not once called upon its people to defend its flag for reasons of tyranny and oppression, but only for freedom."

"We must do what we can to see that no more chapters are added to the book while remaining ever vigilant to see that freedom is not threatened again," Decker concluded.

Following Decker's address, a wreath was placed at the foot of the veteran's monument outside Post 77 headquarters by Post Commander Ed Vaughn and Auxiliary Secretary Eleanor Marsh. Post Chaplain George Wilhelm provided a memorial prayer and a benediction.

Jay Marsh served as master of ceremonies. Music was provided by Bill Ellis and members of the Bay High Band.

Police seeking help in Thomann murder

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Law enforcement officers investigating the death of Laura Jeanne Kelly Thomann, 42, of BaySide Park whose remains were discovered in a wooded area off Lakeshore Road are seeking information from anyone who may have seen her on Monday, Feb. 20 after she left a local lounge.

Ronnie Peterson, Hancock County sheriff, said late Wednesday, "We have been able to trace Mrs. Thomann's last movements to the time she left Chink and Ruth's Lounge walking in a drizzling rain headed towards her residence."

"We urge anyone who may have seen her getting into a vehicle, talking to someone or anything unusual happening on the night of Feb. 27 to please call our office at 467-5101," Peterson emphasized.

LAURA KELLY THOMANN

Police say information will be kept confidential.

The sheriff described Mrs. Thomann as having reddish hair, 5 ft., 8 in. tall, white, and weighing approximately 165 pounds.

Her skeletal remains were found by a motorcyclist from Finland who was seeking a place to camp on May 21, on a dirt road running off Lakeshore Road about one quarter of a mile from US-90.

A New Orleans forensic pathologist indicated she had been dead for about three months when her remains were found and apparently had died as a result of her throat being cut.

Lt. T.P. Naylor, Mississippi Highway Patrol criminal investigator who is assisting on the case, reported some nine persons have already been interviewed.

"We feel it was definitely murder," Naylor stated.

"The site on which her body was found is approximately one and a half miles from her residence, and two and one half miles from the lounge. Someone was bound to have seen her in the areas between the two locations, and we would appreciate any assistance we may receive," Naylor said Wednesday.

Delbert Seay, Hancock County sheriff's investigator, is in charge of the case.

Officials to meet Tuesday to discuss beach repair

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Representatives of various state and federal agencies have been invited to meet next Tuesday with county and local officials to discuss repair of the beach, seawall and beach roadway in Hancock County.

Board of Supervisors President Alton A. Kellar has asked officials to meet with the supervisors to discuss a shorefront rehabilitation plan developed last year by a task force of planners, engineers, government officials and members of the public and prepared by Gulf Regional Planning Commission.

The purpose of the plan, as stated in Kellar's invitation letter, is to "collectively address the major problem areas of beach replenishment, erosion control and flooding, road repair, economic development, etc. in one long-range rehabilitation and development program."

"The plan," the letter explains, "basically includes priorities, goals, objectives, cost estimates and other supporting documentation to justify a comprehensive and coordinated effort which Hancock County is now committed to."

The invitation list includes local officials Mayor John Longo of Waveland, Mayor Larry Bennett of Bay St. Louis, County Engineer Lawrence Seal, Port and Harbor Commission Executive Director James C. DeBlanc and Civil Defense Director Robert Boudin.

Invitations have also been sent to officials from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Soil Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Department of Natural Resources, Bureau of Marine Resources, State Highway Department, South Mississippi Planning Development District, Resource Conservation and Development District, Farmers Home Administration, Federal Emergency Management Administration and State Park Commission.

Over the last 60 years, the rehabilitation plan states, Hancock County has attempted to mitigate destructive forces through constructing an 11.5 mile seawall in 1928, pumping in a protective sand berm against the seawall in 1965, adopting floodplain policies to manage growth in the coastal zone and studying shore and hurricane protection problems.

In addition, the plan explains, the sand berm was replenished in 1972 and $25,000 in Coastal Energy Impact Funds was acquired in 1982 to initiate emergency road repairs.

In 1974 a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers report studying the effects of hurricanes and shore protection revolved around construction of a massive rock barrier to protect Hancock County shores.

Federal assistance was not recommended for the estimated $300 million dollar barrier that would stretch from the Henderson Point area in west Harrison County to an upland point midway in Hancock County.

Not only was the project declared economically unjustified by the Corps, the proposal faced an uphill battle in terms of potential environmental consequences, the plan explains.

"The offshore barrier and other ideas like it are not considered rational or even desirable by county officials," the plan states.

But "the existing sand beach and seawall...could be sufficient if both structures are in good repair."

The task force rehabilitation project involves five stages:

—Establishing an overall long-range implementation master plan;

—Contacting officials for assistance in preparing a detailed master plan and identifying key sources with potential construction loans, grants and technical assistance;

—Preparing actual plans and specifications;

—Construction; and

—Ongoing preventive maintenance.

Proposed tasks in the plan include reconstruction of Beach Road, seawall repair, sand berm replenishment, drainage improvements and reconstruction of Bayou Cadet.

Estimated cost of the total project is over $10 million.

Jeff Taylor of Gulf Regional Planning Commission said the officials will meet at the Hancock County Courthouse at 11 a.m. Monday for a brief introductory meeting.

After a bus tour of the entire beach road and associated areas they will gather for an in-depth presentation at lunch.

"Hopefully, this will give them a first-hand view of the problem," he said.

"The hardest part is going to be to get them to make a commitment," Taylor commented Tuesday.

"We know they aren't going to say 'We have the money and here it is,'" he noted.

"But if they will make a commitment to help, that will make the job a lot easier."

"The county has to utilize every possible resource."

"The big thing is to get the public involved."

Beachfront Fest to be held Sunday

The fifth annual Bay St. Louis Beachfront Festival will be held Sunday from noon until 7 p.m.

The site for the event will be a cordoned-off section of Beach Boulevard between Union and DeMontoux streets.

Events will include a chili cooking contest, five kilometer race, catamaran race, old photo exhibit, arts and crafts sales and live music from 1 p.m. until 7 p.m.

Musical performers include Guitars and Miss Dee, Country Sounds, Louisiana Red Hots and the County Line Band.

The old photo exhibit will feature pictures taken in Bay St. Louis before Hurricane Camille as well as photos of city landmarks no longer in existence.

"This is the first time we've had a photo exhibit. It's a new feature that we hope to add to from year to year. We've really enjoyed putting it together," said Pat Murphy, chairman for the festival.

The five kilometer run, which attracted about 60 runners in 1983 with more expected this year, will begin at 5 p.m. in front of Our Lady's Academy. It is sponsored by Budweiser and the Gulf Coast Running Club and late registration will be taken from 4 to 4:45 p.m. at the driveway of St. Joseph's gymnasium, Murphy said.

Catamaran owners will have the chance to race for a $50 first prize. "We're offering the prize to encourage participation. Last year we only had a few entries," he said. Starting time is 2:30 p.m.

Items available for sale at the festival will include 150 Beachfront Festival posters silk-screened by local artist Elaine Bean. The posters will be sold for $16 each while they last. A limited number of 1983 posters will also be available.

Murphy said festival organizers have received numerous calls about arts and crafts booths and expect to have a variety of items for sale.

Food at the event will include red beans and rice, jambalaya, Cajun sausage on a stick, seafood gumbo, crawfish, fried fish, chili, shishkabob, nachos, hamburgers and hot dogs.

"We're looking for a real good festival this year," Murphy commented.

61 contracts awarded for State Aid

Contracts for 61 State Aid road projects located in 40 counties were awarded during the first four months of 1984, according to William P. Stevenson, State Aid engineer of the Mississippi State Highway Department.

Total construction cost of these projects, including contingencies and engineering, will be $15,332,146.

Among the projects awarded were 23 bridge replacement projects with a total cost of $4,702,576, seven projects involving the resurfacing of 214.7 miles of previously-paved State Aid roads, estimated to cost $2,278,280, and ten projects providing for 37.4 miles of base repair, leveling and bituminous overlay at a cost of $2,045,390.

Also awarded were 12 projects providing for the improvement of 23.2 miles by grading, drainage, base and surfacing and three projects for base and surfacing only on 8.4 miles of previously-built State Aid roads.

Additionally, four emergency relief projects for the restoration of box culverts and bridge abutments were awarded.

State Aid projects are awarded by County Boards of Supervisors subject to the concurrence of the State Aid engineer.

This is the time of year when many local residents begin to harvest all types of vegetables and fruits.

The Home Extension Service will conduct classes on June 5 on canning vegetables and freezing fruits and vegetables; June 6 pickles, relishes, jams and jellies.

Darlene Underwood, Home Economist reports the classes will be 'hands-on' training.

There will be a charge for produce and supplies.

Person interested can call 467-5456 for further information.

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre's production of Neil Simon's Odd Couple is scheduled Friday and Saturday. We have talked to several persons who viewed the play last weekend and they were impressed with the production.

The Little Theatre is located on Boardman Avenue, Bay St. Louis with curtain time at 8:15 both nights. Admission is only $4.

So, if you're looking for a few laughs and have a little time Friday or Saturday, you may want to enjoy some really good local acting.

It was good to see so many persons expressing patriotism on Memorial Day.

American Legion activities in both Bay St. Louis and Waveland drew large crowds.

The monument dedicated to all the natives of Hancock County killed in action during the four wars is something which will be long remembered by relatives and friends.

In case you haven't seen the monument, it is located at The Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139's home on Green Meadow Road in Bay St. Louis.

While on the subject of patriotism, we have noticed quiet a few American Flags being displayed by businesses and homeowners in recent weeks.

We feel that every business place should display an American flag.

Many folks are talking about the super sized American flag being displayed at Bay-Waveland Auto Parts.

It is as large as any American flag we have ever seen.

MEC

Mississippi —Number One in Free Enterprise Education

Free enterprise may still be in trouble, so participants in the system cannot afford to relax efforts to educate the public as to the virtues and values of the system.

Within recent days, national surveys have indicated only 13 percent of the public has confidence in business, and 61 percent of American workers think corporate profits are too high.

The average worker, the poll indicated, believes the average corporation makes 33 cents after taxes on every sales dollar; the truth is, the profit is closer to four to six cents per dollar.

That's why the work of Mississippi's American Enterprise Center is so important. Over the past five years the Center, which is an arm of the Mississippi Economic Council, has provided free enterprise training for more than 4,000 teachers from both public and private high schools, offered free enterprise youth rallies for several thousand Mississippi high school students, and provided free enterprise educational materials for adult employees.

Significantly, independent tests indicating students and teachers having received the American Enterprise Center training have a greater understanding of free enterprise than do students and teachers who have not received the training.

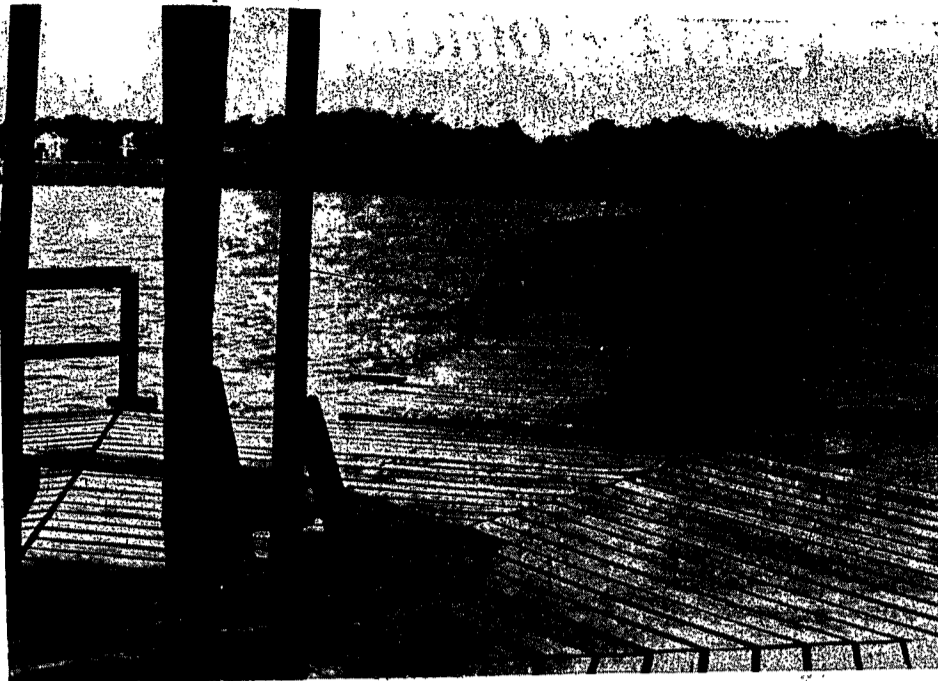

Also of interest, free enterprise education materials produced by the Mississippi Center are now being used in more than 20 states.

At least in free enterprise education Mississippi may be number one, or close to number one, among all the states.

POISON IVY

A friend and I were exposed to poison ivy recently. My friend developed a painful rash, but I didn't. Why not?

With all the delights of summer—swimming, picnics, vacations—comes a nuisance or two, not the least of which is poison ivy.

This common wild plant, along with its cousins, poison oak and poison sumac, can cause a bothersome skin rash in sensitive individuals. The plants contain a substance called rhus oil in their leaves, stalks and roots, which produces irritation on contact with the skin.

Not all individuals are sensitive to rhus oil, and at least one prior exposure to the oil is necessary to develop sensitivity.

What does the rash look like?

It usually appears as clusters of small blisters or pimples on reddened skin at sites where the oil has touched the skin. It's usually intensely itchy, so constant scratching occurs. This leads to breaking of blisters, crusting and increased irritation. If not removed, the rhus oil will spread, causing more blistering. However, fluid from the blisters will not cause the rash to spread.

How should you treat poison ivy?

The usual case of poison ivy is fairly mild and self-limited unless infection occurs or the rash is very widespread. Treatment, therefore, involves avoidance of spreading, relief from itching and prevention of infection.

If you come in contact with poison ivy, do the following:

—The skin should be washed vigorously with soap and water to remove all of the oily substance. The quicker it's washed off, the less it'll be absorbed and the less severe the rash.

—Wash all clothing and other outdoor equipment that may have been in contact with the oil.

—For relief of itching, oral antihistamines are effective. Some are available over the counter (for example, chlorpheniramine), and others by prescription (for example, diphenhydramine or hydroxyzine). Watch out for sleepiness from the antihistamine.

—Use clean cloth rags soaked in a solution of cool tap water and Burrow's solution (available without a prescription) as a compress to soothe the irritation and ease the itch. Baths and showers likewise should be cool, since heat worsens the itch.

—Cut your fingernails so skin won't be further damaged and infection spread by scratching.

—Topical Hydrocortisone (available without a prescription in a 0.5% cream) rubbed gently into the rash relieves the inflammation and itch of poison ivy. If the rash is more severe, your doctor may prescribe a more potent corticosteroid cream or short course of an oral corticosteroid-type medication.

—If home treatment isn't bringing about improvement within 3 or 5 days, or if signs of infection develop, contact your doctor.

—Learn to recognize the culprit plant so you can avoid future contact, and keep your summertime happy and safe.

IN CONGRESS

By Cong. Trent Lott

MISSSED OPPORTUNITIES

The House has missed another golden opportunity to cut federal spending and take other corrective measures designed to assist in the deficit-cutting program.

The measures under consideration were amendments to the National Science Foundation and the National Bureau of Standards authorization bills. These amendments could have cut spending by a total of about $7 million.

The amendments were defeated, though, in what I consider to be a classic example of why the House has failed to go far enough in correcting budget problems. And, the problem remains in the House, where spending bills originate.

The other point involves the legislative schedule.

According to the numbers the House should have had a good week last week, passing more than 25 bills. Here is a sampling of them:

—To implement the Eastern Pacific Ocean Tuna Fishing Agreement; to designate Pennsylvania wilderness area; to rename the St. Croix Island

Monument as the St. Croix International Historic Site; to protect the lamprey eel in the Pierre Marquette River in Michigan.

Now, I'm not saying that these bills aren't important to local areas. They obviously are important to the individual members of Congress who introduced them and worked for their passage on the non-controversial calendar.

The other side is that while we were debating bills of this nature, we were not spending time on other legislation which must be considered.

This list would include a balanced budget amendment and a line-item veto to help the President control spending.

It would also include immigration reform and how to deal with an influx of illegal aliens, criminal code reform and prayer in schools.

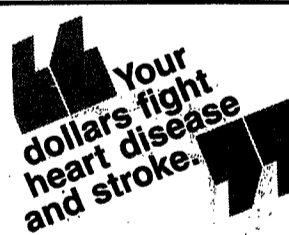

Instead of dealing with the major matters, we were passing 25 relatively insignificant bills and, in my opinion, wasting valuable legislative time. I keep hoping we will get down to some real serious business.

The business of this Congress certainly isn't finished yet.

During the next few weeks, we must take up the foreign aid authorization, which still has too much spending in it, but includes the issue of what the U.S. role should be in Central America.

Then, there's the Department of Defense authorization bill, which includes shipbuilding, planes, personnel and military hardware. I look for votes on the B1 bomber, the Trident submarine and the MX missile.

All in all, there is much left to do, and every minute we spend on the House floor is an opportunity we must not waste.

We need your help.

Operation Recycle...

Junk yards serve a useful purpose in Mississippi's "War on Ugliness." They are important as recycling centers to help preserve precious resources such as copper, aluminum, lead, oil, rubber, newspapers, glass and rare metals. The recycling centers, too, can help the state by screening and cleaning up the areas where they operate. Recycling programs have been reported in Kosciusko, Columbia, Newton, Yazoo City, DeKalb, Louisville, Tutwiler, New Albany, Drew and Biloxi. Recycling sites are located in 10 counties. Recycling can clean up ugly areas and provide income for buying flowers, shrubs, street trees and other community appearance items. A list of recycling centers is available by writing The Land Use Center, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, P. O. Box 5405, Mississippi State, Miss. 39762.

Several residents also complained about violations of health codes in Hancock County.

Shoreline Park Civic Association Vice President Herbert J. Marsh presented the supervisors with copies of the state's health code setting forth the duty of county health officers to enforce rules and regulations of the state board of health.

Marsh quoted from health regulations that state "...where, a system of sanitary sewers is not available all human excreta shall be disposed of into a properly constructed and maintained sewage disposal system."

"No such system shall be permitted to discharge onto the surface of the ground or onto any street or alley, nor shall such discharge be permitted into any ditch, stream, or lake, or into any water body which may create a public health hazard," the regulation continues.

Marsh noted the codes provide that violators are "guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be punished by fine not exceeding $50, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one month, or by both."

Marsh also provided copies of complaints filed with the county health department about violations in Shoreline Park and with photographs of alleged violations.

"We haven't gotten any satisfactory response at all out of the health department," he said.

"We've come to you for help."

Supervisor Bert Courge said the same problem has occurred in BaySide and that Louis Fernandez, health department sanitarian, has said the department was understaffed.

Board Attorney Walter Gex III suggested that the civic associations cooperate by locating properties where violations are occurring.

"We're going out and finding them, and we're still not getting any satisfaction," Marsh said.

"We've made complaints," Mary Caillier of Clermont Harbor said.

"We've shown Fernandez the problems and it still has not been cleaned up."

The law has teeth in it," Gex noted. "You have the complaint and you have the punishment."

Now you have to get the investigation done."

The supervisors agreed to ask the health department to follow up on the civic association's complaints.

Fernandez said yesterday afternoon that he is working on all complaints that have been filed with him regarding Shoreline Park and any other areas of Hancock County.

"It takes time to get some of these problems solved," he said.

Fernandez said his efforts include apprising citizens of the hazards of having no sanitary waste disposal and working with them to have some form of disposal system installed.

"But central sewerage and central water is the real answer," he asserted.

Also Monday, State Senator Gene Taylor attended the supervisors' meeting to express his interest in helping establish a commercial harbor and marina at Bayou Cadet.

Taylor said he has already made preliminary contacts with several officials.

"It's not going to be a cakewalk," he said.

"It's going to take a lot of persistence."

"The last time we talked about such a project and got figures the cost estimate was $3 million," Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner commented.

Bill Taylor said he proposed a bill and Washington, D.C. could pump about $10 million per year into the coastal counties and suggested Hancock County officials should lay the groundwork to be ready if the bill passes.

The proposed legislation, he said, is a

"tradeoff" for the privilege of offshore oil drilling, and could, he thinks, be used for such projects as marina development or beach road repair and maintenance.

The supervisors will meet with Taylor and members of the Port and Harbor Commission Thursday, June 14, to discuss the Bayou Cadet marina further.

In other business the supervisors:

—Designated the Lakeshore Park subdivision as a bird and game sanctuary, as requested several weeks ago in a petition presented by the Lakeshore Park Civic Association;

—Accepted Supervisor Bert Courge's recommendation and reappointed Perry Gibson to the Hancock County Hospital Board of Trustees;

—Reappointed Victor Green to the Hancock County Planning Commission, also at Courge's request; and —Accepted the resignation of Christine Zimmerman as a temporary part-time employee for the Justice Court and employed Connie Dupree in her stead effective May 18.

PRC offers freshman early testing

Pearl River College is offering an early orientation testing program to freshmen entering vocational programs this fall.

Vocational programs include air conditioning and refrigeration, auto mechanics, carpentry, cosmetology, diesel mechanics, electricity, machine shop, masonry and welding.

Freshmen who are entering academic or technical programs must take the ACT prior to entrance. No further orientation testing will be required of academic and technical students.

Technical programs include data processing, distribution and marketing, drafting, electronics, medical secretarial science and one and two year secretarial science. Academic programs are those not included in vocational or technical study.

Vocational freshmen report from 8 to 8:45 a.m. Monday through Friday to counselors Ann Moore or Joe Wesley in the vocational technical building. Testing is scheduled for 9 a.m. Monday through Thursday June 4 through July 31, 1984.

Counseling services will be offered throughout the summer for vocational and technical students from 7:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

BaySide elects fire chief

Dave Ellspermann has been elected new chief of the BaySide Park Volunteer Fire Department.

Ellspermann was elected at the department's May meeting to replace Chief James Crawford, who resigned for health reasons.

In other business, the department plans to hold a cake sale as a fund-raising project June 16 in front of K-Mart in Waveland.

The department also discussed the collection of dues, which are $10 per year per home. Dues were scheduled to be paid in January and are used to finance the operation of the department, but response has been low.

Those who wish to pay dues by mail may send them to BaySide Park Volunteer Fire Department, P.O. Box 172 C, Lakeshore, Miss. To have dues picked up, call 467-9771.

ETV Brief

WALTER ANDERSON

Mississippi ETV's award-winning half-hour documentary film about the late Ocean Springs artist Walter Anderson will be rebroadcast on the statewide network at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, May 31. It also will be telecast at 7 p.m. Saturday, June 2.

First seen on Mississippi ETV, in September 1977 and nationally on the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) in February 1978, "The Islander," starring James Best as Anderson, was filmed on the Mississippi Gulf Coast and Horn Island and is based on extensive interviews with Anderson's wife and children and on the logs he kept on his retreats to Horn Island.

The film dramatizes events described in the logs and utilizes flashbacks to portray the artist's life on the mainland.

Mary Anderson Pickard, Anderson's daughter, narrates the program and portrays his wife. Two of his grandchildren play his children.

Krewe elects officers

The Krewe of Diamondhead held their annual summer meeting at the Diamondhead Sales Office on Friday, May 25, to elect officers for the next two years. Re-elected were Tommy Heier as president, Jerry H. Bourg as treasurer and Eleanor Standsbury as secretary.

Heier reigned as 1983 king, King Ali'i Honua VIII, and as past president and on the board of directors of the Diamondhead Property Association.

Bourg is the 1984 king, King Ali'i Honua IX, and served as an officer and on the board of directors of the Diamondhead Community Association.

Standsbury is an active citizen in Diamondhead.

Permanent officers for the association are Benny Mistretta as captain; Bill Eckert as ways and means lieutenant; William Neff as social and activity lieutenant; Hilda L. Bourg as publicity lieutenant and Chris Arnos as parade lieutenant.

Mistretta said plans were being made for several fund raising activities in the near future. Anyone who was unable to attend the meeting may pay their dues to Captain Mistretta, 255-2504, or Jerry Bourg, 255-1299.

Over 40 percent of all patients buying contact lenses are no longer wearing them at the end of one year. This staggering statistic is the direct result of thousands of patients seeking to save money buying contact lenses at rock bottom prices with inadequate fitting and poor follow-up.

If you are interested in contacts, pick a real clinic with plenty of contacts in stock. Wearing contacts before you purchase them can save time and money. At TCO, we offer a 30-day trial period. If you are not satisfied, we will refund your money. We also offer a 30-day trial period. If you are not satisfied, we will refund your money. We also offer a 30-day trial period. Never buy contacts from an optical shop. These people are not licensed to dispense contacts and have inadequate technical personnel.

Contractor given deadline to complete work

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Bond Paving Co. does not complete its work at Stennis International Airport next month its bonding company will be notified of default, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors agreed on Tuesday.

Monday the supervisors approved a resolution from the Port and Harbor Commission authorizing Port and Harbor attorneys to give the contractor's attorney a June 10 deadline for completion of the east taxiway and a June 20 deadline for completion of the parking lot.

Commission Executive Director James DeBlanc told the supervisors the company is already in "over time" and will owe some $85,000 in liquidated damages.

Liquidated damages are accruing at $25 per calendar day on each job, DeBlanc said Tuesday, with a total accumulation of $82,000 as of May 24.

The Federal Aeronautics Administration, which is funding 90 percent of both contracts, does not waive liquidated damages, DeBlanc told the supervisors.

The total contract for the apron work is $193,074.50, DeBlanc said; for the taxiway, $143,251.85.

Also Monday, the supervisors authorized a 30-year lease agreement between the commission and Townco East, Inc. of Slidell, La., which plans to construct single hangars at Stennis International Airport for private airplanes.

The area covered by the lease agreement, DeBlanc said, is south of Roadway B, extends about 400 feet to the south and about 230 feet from east to west, with room for some 18 hangars.

Additional space can be provided as needed, he said.

Each 40-by-40-foot hangar will require a 45-by-45-foot lot. Townco will build the hangars one at a time and will pay $50 per month for each lot.

At the end of 30 years, DeBlanc said, the buildings will become the property of the county.

Users cannot store fuel at the facility, DeBlanc noted, and cannot perform maintenance work on aircraft other than their own.

"We are confident this project will create additional activity at the airport," he said.

Also Monday, the supervisors authorized execution of a second addendum to a lease purchase agreement between the commission and Bergeron Industries, Inc. granting a seven-month extension to October, of a deferral on lease purchase payments.

Bergeron will continue to pay a $500-per-month deferral fee, DeBlanc said.

The supervisors also authorized an agreement between the commission and Hancock County Terminal Co., Inc. allowing the terminal company partial use of the turning basin on a periodic basis—about four or five times per month, DeBlanc estimated.

The company will also acquire adjacent land to stockpile coal if necessary, paying 25 cents per ton per month for the storage.

This agreement, DeBlanc said, can be cancelled with 90 days notice.

Odom said she was not given a copy of subdivision restrictions.

She also said she had been told by both Shoreline Park officials and Waveland city officials that there was no ordinance prohibiting the horses.

Odom said she is financing purchase of the property through Shoreline Park.

"I told them what I was going to do with it," she said, "and I also called Waveland City Hall."

The City of Waveland has an ordinance stating that fowls, animals, livestock, reptiles, etc., excepting dogs, cats and other household pets, shall not be raised or kept within 300 feet of the residence of any person, who shall complain in writing requesting that they be removed.

But a later section of the ordinance states it shall be enforced only if an appropriate resident complains and the board of health finds the situation to be a hazard to health.

A second hearing, on a request by Mike Pernicaro for a zoning change from R-1 to C-3 for Lots 3, 4 and 5 of Block 115 in Gulf Subdivision, elicited no protests.

Some dozen residents attended the Bay St. Louis meeting to protest a request from Raymond Stephens Jr. to rezone a lot near the intersection of St. Charles Street and Old Spanish Trail from R-1 to R-3.

According to City Clerk Edward Favre, Stephens wants to construct a four-plex on the property.

After a 30-minute wait during which protesters grumbled about commissioners' non-attendance, McDonald announced that the hearing will be rescheduled for July 10.

People in the 16th century believed they could predict the future by throwing dirt into the air and "reading" the patterns it made when it fell.

A SPINAL CURVATURE CAN SAP YOUR HEALTH
Scientific Chiropractic has gained much knowledge regarding the causes and correction of spinal curvatures. Curvatures of the spine can be so great that one can easily see the person is twisted. Others are very slight, but many curvatures are responsible for sickly children and poor health in adults. A curvature of the spine slows the adult person down and saps away his energy and strength and even his resistance, making him always feel tired, fatigued, and robbing him of much good health and the long life he should enjoy. Chiropractic research has brought out the technical skills necessary to correct the majority of these spinal curvatures. At a rate, children no longer need to go through life with a crooked back, and adults, too, can have the structural stability of their spines restored. Correction of these conditions helps to bring forth a surge of new pep and vitality, energy and strength which go to make up the ingredients of good health.

NSTL announces participation in Hospitality Day

NASA's National Space Technology Laboratories will participate in Hospitality Day activities June 1 at welcome centers in Hancock and Pearl River counties.

Personnel from the NSTL Visitors' Center will be at both centers throughout the day to speak to visitors and distribute pictures and other material.

At the Hancock County Welcome Center, a Visitors' Center employee dressed in an astronaut's space suit will greet visitors and explain NSTL's role in America's space program and other missions of NASA and NSTL's resident agencies.

In Pearl River County, mime artist Sharlot Roberts, an NSTL tour guide, will perform at 9 and 11 a.m. and 1 and 3 p.m. Ms. Roberts, a Picayune resident, will talk to visitors about the new NSTL Visitors' Center and the wide range of activities under way at the installation.

Wayne Ducomb, NSTL public affairs specialist, will also be available to provide information and answer questions.

"The annual Hospitality Day event is one example of the ongoing cooperative arrangement between NSTL and our local welcome centers."

The Naval Oceanography Command announced recently that the U.S. Treasury will be reimbursed from private funds for expenses related to invitations to the third Neptune Ball.

Navy postal officials have ruled that the use of Postage and Fees Paid envelopes was an improper use of the indicia privilege.

Navy officials said the Neptune Ball committee misinterpreted directives permitting use of government funds for invitations to events held "in the name of" or "on behalf of" the Navy. Officials explained those conditions do not apply to purely local social events.

The third Neptune Ball, sponsored by the Naval Oceanography Command, was held April 7 at the Diamondhead Country Club. The purpose of the ball is to provide an opportunity for members of the Coast communities to meet socially with local Navy personnel.

The Naval Oceanography Command is headquartered at the National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County.

Hancock Welcome Center to observe Hospitality Day

June is Hospitality month in Mississippi. The Hospitality Month program, sponsored annually by the Division of Tourism, Mississippi Department of Economic Development, prompts Mississippians to recognize the economic importance of tourism and to extend a friendly hand to visitors.

June 1 has been designated as Hospitality Day, which coincides with National Tourism Week (May 27-June 2). Special activities planned in each of Mississippi's eight Welcome Centers on June 1 include:

- Presentation to tourists of Mississippi specialty items including T-shirts, road atlas, and bumper stickers.
- Registration for free studio size Baldwin piano. Entries will be sent to the Mississippi Pavilion at the World's Fair in New Orleans where drawing will be held at 3 p.m. June 3.

Specific activities at the Hancock Welcome Center off Hwy. 607 at I-10 include:

- Appearance by Mississippi Miss Hospitality, Lucy Jenkins.
- Appearances by area Miss Hospitalitys.
- NASA display.
- Giveaways to tourists registering when bell sounds; certificates for free meals and gifts from area merchants.
- Flowers from Bay-Waveland and Diamondhead Garden Clubs.
- Cake in afternoon.

Phone company requests directory information

South Central Bell has announced that the closing date for making changes, corrections or additions to the Gulf Coast telephone directory is approaching rapidly.

District Manager Don Roberts has requested that all telephone subscribers in the Gulf Coast area check their current listings.

Any changes or additions in residence listing can be called in to the Residence Service Center at 1-888-5011, toll free. Business customers can call in changes to 1-960-3014, also toll free.

Yellow Page additions or changes should be received by the end of May and white page listings by June 28.

The Gulf Coast telephone directory is scheduled to be delivered to area residents and businesses in mid-September.

A thought for meditation from our pastor, Father Lambert Stack, ST. "When you come through a trial victoriously, you are higher up the mountain than before."

—Anonymous St. Ann-St. John Altar Society Mass will be 9:30 a.m. Sunday, June 3 at St. Ann Church for all members, both living and deceased.

Each Saturday in the month of June, Mrs. Dot Neubig will be responsible for the offertory procession during the 6 p.m. Mass at St. Ann Church.

Each Sunday in June, Mrs. Shirley Williams will be responsible for the offertory procession for the 9:30 a.m. Mass at St. Ann's.

The annual Rummage Sale will be held in the parish hall, Lower Bay Road, Wednesday, June 6; Thursday, June 7; and Friday, June 8 from 9:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. each day.

Mrs. Shirley Williams, president, St. Ann-St. John Altar Society and chairlady for this parish fund-raising project reported there are many good buys in shoes, clothing, toys, furniture and odds and ends. It still isn't too late to accept donations of any kind for the sale. If anyone has any usable clothing, toys, furniture, etc., they may be brought to the rectory or to the church before the sale.

Monument dedication speaker calls for peacetime patriotism

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the message given by John Wilkerson, adjutant of Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139 in Bay St. Louis, at dedication of a monument to Hancock County natives killed in action during World Wars I and II, Korean conflict, and in Vietnam.

Dedication of a Memorial
In the name of Clement R. Bontemps Post 139, American Legion, Department of Mississippi, I now dedicate this memorial.

It is dedicated to the memory of those who fell in the service of their country on land and sea.

It is dedicated in the name of those who offered their lives that justice and democracy might survive.

The lives of those who have made the supreme sacrifice are glorious before us and their deeds are an inspiration. As they served America in time of war, yielding their last full measure of devotion, may we serve America in time of peace.

I dedicate this memorial to them and with it I dedicate our Legion Post to the faithful service of our country and to the preservation of the memory of those who died that liberty might live.

VETERANS REMEMBERED—Wreaths were placed at monument in memory of Hancock County natives killed in action during the last four wars. The wreaths were presented by Disabled American Veterans Post No. 50, The Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139, and The Theodore S. Price Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 3253. Those from the

Memorial Day speaker honors vets from Revolution through Vietnam

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the Memorial Day address delivered Monday by Judge Joseph Benvenuto, chaplain of Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139, Bay St. Louis, at the grave site of Clement R. Bontemps in St. Mary's Cemetery.

We are gathered here this morning, May 28, 1984 designated as Memorial Day, to pay tribute to the millions of men and women who have demonstrated their loyalty, their patriotism and their devotion to duty during times of national crisis.

In doing this, we tell the history of our country's life—recount the lofty deeds of vanished years—the toll and sufferings, the defeats and victories of heroic men, of men who made our nation great and free.

The dream of liberty by our forefathers is reflected by the Declaration of Independence which proclaimed that all men are equal and have the right to life as free thinking men, who would no longer suffer the indignities of tyranny and arbitrary power imposed by sovereign rulers.

The American Revolution gave our forefathers a free land, the War of 1812 a free sea. Then came the terrible stigma of the Civil War that divided our nation into two enemy forces, sending American fighting American from which advanced a recognition of human rights.

And as a wounded nation slowly healed itself and the scars of war began to fade, there appeared another threat to the freedom of a peace living nation.

This time it was on foreign land and once again our citizens rallied to the call to aid their nation in need to protect the freedom so gallantly preserved in past history.

In the following years, as another generation prepared to take their place as productive and useful citizens, another cloud of war appeared on the eastern horizon, which threatened our allies in Europe, as well as our sovereignty.

At the beginning of World War II, we honored the memory of those who gave their lives in the war that brought us peace and freedom.

And now, as we gather here today, we honor the memory of those who have given their lives in the service of their country during the last four wars.

ruthless, fanatical enemies. Like those who followed in the Korean and Vietnam Wars, each veteran contributed full measure to the preservation of our birthright.

Throughout our nation's history, no sacrifice has been too great in service to our flag. The flag has risen as a standard of the highest ideals of a self-governing nation and it is most important that it also serves as a memorial to those who gave their lives in its behalf.

The flag for which our country's heroes fought, for which they died, is the symbol of all we hope to be.

It is the emblem of equal rights as demonstrated by our stars and stripes, is the emblem of a Supreme Will, of a nation's power.

Beneath its folds, the weakest must be protected and the strongest must obey.

It is this, the noblest mission and the noblest duty. All who stand beneath our banner are free.

Ours is the only flag that has in reality written upon it: Liberty, Fraternity, Equality—the three most meaningful words in all the languages of men.

Liberty: Give to every man the fruits of his own labor—the labor of his hands and of his brain.

Fraternity: Every man in the right is a brother to each other.

Equality: The rights of all are equal. Justice poised and balanced in eternal claim will shake from the golden scales, in which are weighed the acts of men, the very dust of prejudice and caste.

This year there have been new graves added to those who gave their lives for their country.

On this day, as we honor all who have fallen, we must be mindful that the nation which called these citizens to bear arms not once has done so for participation in international strife since World War I to the present time.

It is the emblem of equal rights, and means free hands, free lips, self government, and the sovereignty of the individual.

It means that this continent has been dedicated to freedom and that more effort has been made by the United States towards achieving this goal than any other nation in the world.

It means universal education—light for every mind, knowledge for every child and that the school house is the fortress of liberty.

It means that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed.

That responsibility goes hand in hand with liberty. It means that it is the duty of every citizen to bear his share of the public burden, to take part in the affairs of his town, his county, his state and his country.

It means that the source of authority must not be poisoned by unprincipled selfish motives and that every citizen of our country must be protected at home in every state, abroad in every land and on every sea.

tyranny or oppression. Those who have rallied around her flag have done so to protect and defend ourselves and those less fortunate.

It is in that spirit that they should all be remembered, not as conquerors, but as liberators who were not able to see the fruits of their labor.

There is no language to express the debt we owe, the love we bear to all the dead who died for our country.

Words are but barren sounds. We can but then stand beside their graves and in the hush and silence, feel that speech has never told.

They fought gallantly for the principles that the man who acts best his part, who loves his friends the best, is not willing to help others, trust to the obligation, who has the best heart, the most feeling, the deepest sympathies, and who freely gives to others the rights that he claims for himself, is the best man.

And for these principles they joined the ranks of untold patriots reaching out to protect the land of the free and the home of the brave, the America worth fighting for.

This is the history of our country written in indelible sweat and blood by those we memorialize today.

STATE COMMANDER—Among those participating in special Memorial Day ceremonies which included a monument dedication, are, from right, Henry McCoy, Mississippi Department commander of the American Legion; John Wilkerson, post adjutant and monument chairman; and Billy Moran, commander of The Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139. The monument bears names of natives of Hancock County killed in action during World War I, World War II, The Korean Conflict, and The Vietnam Conflict.

FAMILIES OF THOSE KILLED—The families of Hancock County natives killed in action during the four wars were introduced during ceremonies. State and District American Legion special guests included Henry McCoy, Department of Mississippi American Legion commander, and Capt. John Sears, USN, commanding officer of Naval Oceanographic Office at NSTL. Sandwiches were provided by Ladies Auxiliary members after dedication.

WREATH PLACED ON GRAVE—A wreath was placed on the grave of Clement R. Bontemps by the post adjutant, John Wilkerson, and the post chairman, Billy Moran, during the Memorial Day ceremonies at St. Mary's Cemetery.

ETV Brief

MYSTERY presents a rebroadcast of "Miss Morison's Ghosts" at 8 p.m. Thursday, May 31 on Mississippi ETV.

Starring Dame Wendy Hiller and Hannah Gordon, the two-hour special deals with the principal of an Oxford University college and her assistant who, on a visit to Versailles in 1991, are convinced they've seen the ghosts of Marie Antoinette and members of her court—more than 100 years after the queen and her retinue were guillotined during the French Revolution.

Writer Ian Curteis based "Miss Morison's Ghosts" on fact. Physical investigators continue to wonder on whether or not the two women actually did see ghosts.

Those who have not yet seen the film should call the local television stations for the broadcast time. The film will be shown on the following dates: Tuesday, May 29, 7:30 p.m.; Wednesday, May 30, 7:30 p.m.; Thursday, May 31, 8 p.m.; Friday, June 1, 7:30 p.m.; Saturday, June 2, 7:30 p.m.

"FOXY GRANDMA"—"Grandma is coming! Why can't you help out?" Mrs. Maxwell, played by Destin Black, asks Willie, played by Mark Carter.

Summer courses, workshops listed

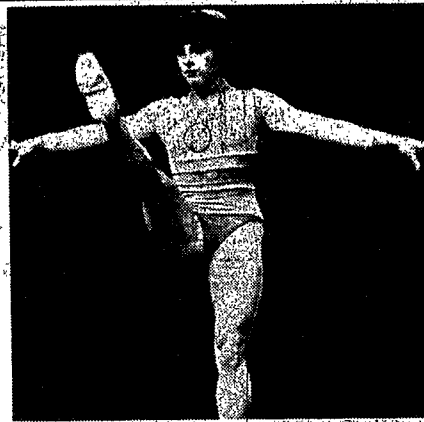

The Sea Coast Echo is pleased to announce the following summer courses and workshops. Registration for the two-week program is $100, and includes tuition, room and board, and a variety of recreational and educational activities. The program is open to high school graduates and college students. For more information, contact the Sea Coast Echo at 1234 Main Street, Seaside, OR 97138. Phone: (503) 738-1234.

FOOD SERVICE
This program is designed to serve the needs of first-year food service managers, and the institute will also include a special section for child care center food service managers. A minimum of 20 hours of class work is planned for managers, with classes conducted in the air-conditioned home economics building. Assembly programs, food demonstrations, and small equipment displays will also be included. An outstanding staff of instructors for the institute has been selected from the university's Home Economics Department, the State Child Nutrition staff and the State Board of Health staff.

Home Economics
Home Economics in cooperation with the State Department of Education and the State Board of Health. Coordination for the Institute will be provided by the Ole Division of Continuing Education. A special orientation workshop is designed to serve the needs of first-year food service managers, and the institute will also include a special section for child care center food service managers. A minimum of 20 hours of class work is planned for managers, with classes conducted in the air-conditioned home economics building.

GYMNASTIC AWARD WINNERS—Elaine's School of Gymnastics, under the direction of Elaine Alfano, held its 11th annual Award Show recently in the school on Gladstone Street in Bay St. Louis. Trophy winners include, standing from left, Corey Gex, third place; Ken Booker, third place; Marty Morreale, first place; Linnea Curran, third place; Margaret Welz, third place; Danielle Bourgeois, second place; Tanisha Necaise, second place; and Trennon Bird, third place; kneeling from left, Desiree Egloff, third place; Hailey Bilbo, third place; Michelle Redditt, second place; Chante Booker, first place; Aimee Harville, first place; Shawna Ousse, first place; Robbin Welz, third place; and Philip Lenfant, first place. Not pictured are David Crosby, first place; Byrce Gex, second place; Tylan McMichael, second place; and Loraine Fontenot, second place. (Photo by Bob Hubbard)

BALANCED PROGRAM: 15-year-old Mary Lou Retton may be poised for the berth on the 1984 Summer Olympics Women's Gymnastics Team. Retton was last year's all-around champion at the prestigious Invitational — THE 1983 CAESARS PALACE INVITATIONAL.

Snippets

The highest point on the North American continent is Mount McKinley in Alaska; the lowest in Death Valley, Calif.

The handshake originated in medieval Europe as a gesture between two men to show that each was unarmed.

Few places in the world honor the onion as much as Bern, Switzerland. Since 1405, an annual festival has been held for the onion on the fourth Monday in November.

By a special act of Congress in 1939, baseball was the first sport to be honored with a commemorative postal stamp.
